LEW WALLACE HIGH SCHOOL

GARY, INDIANA

Our school is singularly honored as the only one in the United States granted the right to make use of the Wallace family crest. This old English coat of arms dates back to the eleventh century.

The lifted hand on the upper left of the shield symbolizes the Wallace family's sincere desire for peace. The Wallace family was willing to extend the hand of friendship, and we as students extend the bonds of friendship during our high school years.

The quill, to the left, crossing the blade, portrays scholarship. General Wallace's understanding and intelligence will live forever in his books: Ben Hur, The Fair God, and Prince of Peace. We also have pledged ourselves to appreciate the value of our academic curriculum.

The upraised lion, centered on the Wallace shield, symbolizes strength of character. Through our extra-curricular activities, we strive to attain this realization.

A gleaming blade crossing behind our shield has come to symbolize true sportsmanship. Refraining from unfair practices in all our endeavors is our code.

The ostrich head cresting the Wallace shield is surmounted by a banner bearing the Latin inscription, "Sperandum Est". In translation this means "one must hope". As we approach our destinies as part of the adult world, "one must hope" that we measure up to our crest's symbolic meaning.

Student Life

The many guard railings along our campus walks often provide a few minutes rest before the crowded afternoon classes begin.

CROWDS FILL SCHOOL HALLS AND ROOMS

Crowds and confusion are generally found in a school where an ever increasing enrollment is noticeable. This was true as we began the 1960-61 school year September 7. Housing more than 2700 students in a school designed for 1700 made this year no exception. S.R.O. was the rule.

We filled the halls and classrooms, creating traffic jams on the third floor and at most school entrances. Limited to four minutes between classes, students really hustled and bustled getting to and from classes in our congested halls. To help expedite this problem we were only permitted to visit our lockers before school, during lunch hours, and after school.

The large enrollment also produced a need for more classrooms. This challenge was met by having English classes in the drama dressing room, study halls in the cafeteria, and French in a converted teachers' lounge. We didn't mind this as long as there was space for all of us.

Our football games drew enormous crowds. The team was supported by school and community boosters who regularly attended games. Fifteen hundred students and as many alumni attended our 1960 Homecoming game against Horace Mann. The largest attendance of the year watched a 7-7 score.

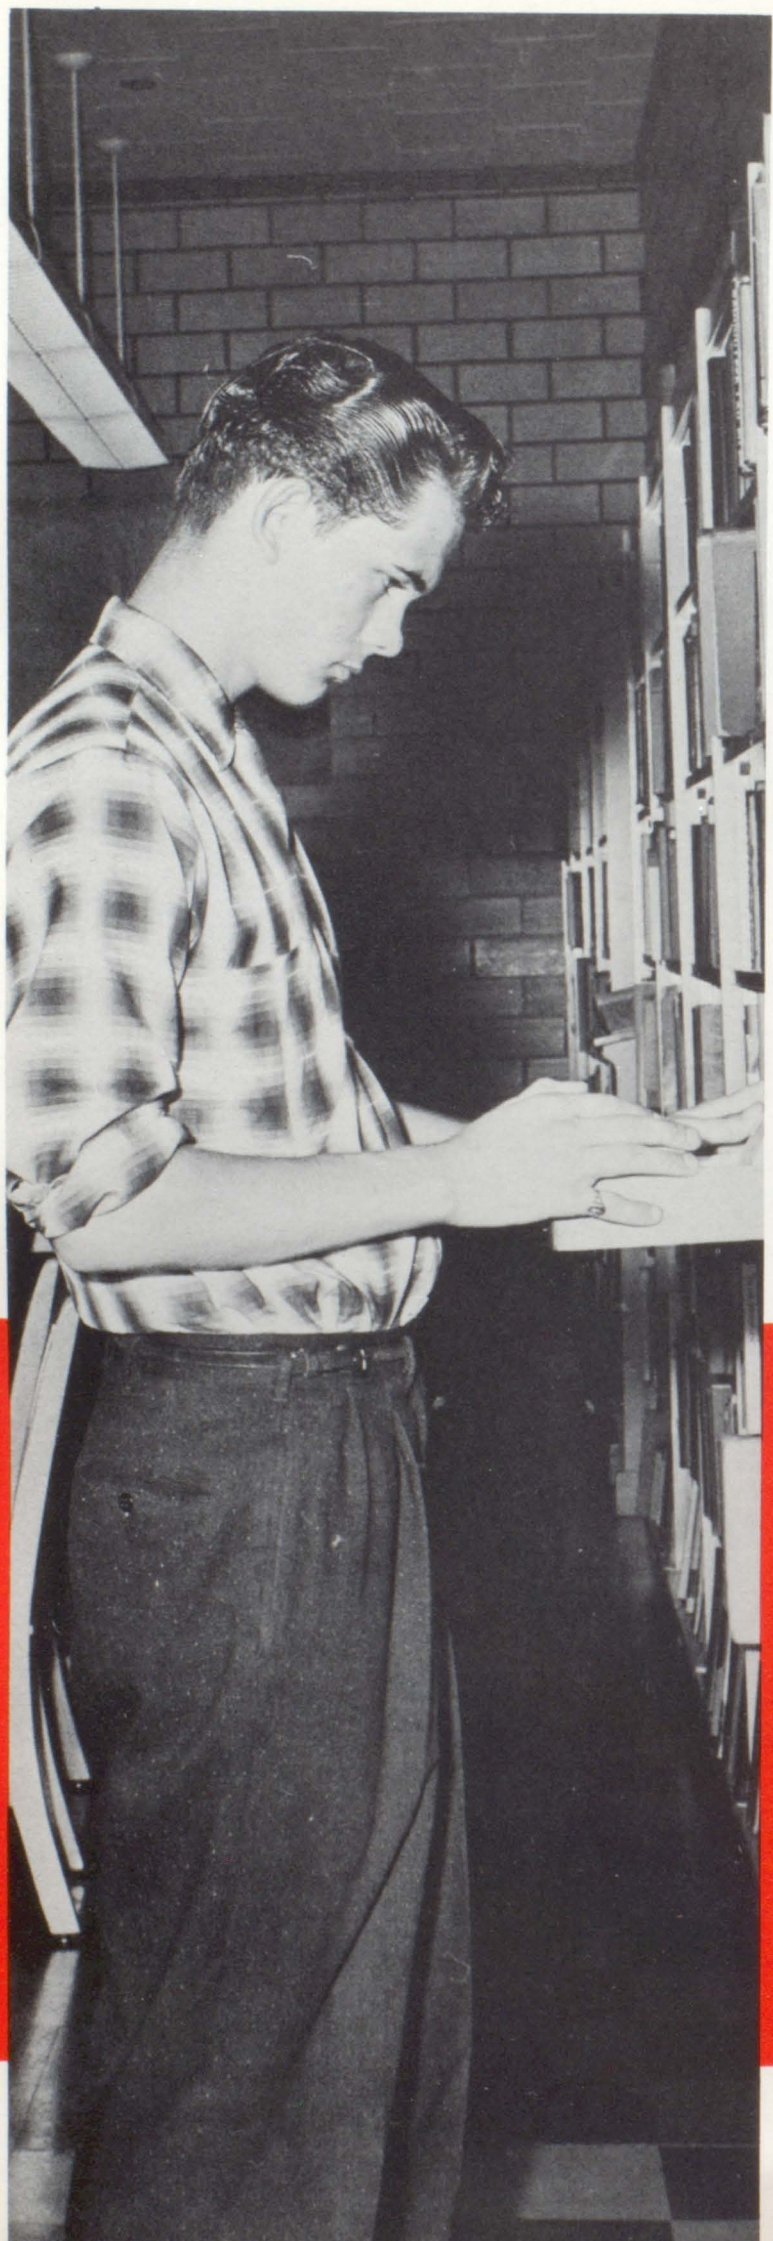

A Saturday afternoon football game with Valpo found crowds of us cheering our team to victory in the unseasonably warm September sunlight.

Stairways were so crowded we seldom could greet our passing friends.

Junior High students faced the same crowded conditions as they poured themselves into the West building.

EXTRAS ADD SPICE TO CURRICULUM

Daily studies were sometimes interrupted when time was called for Career Day, consultations with college representatives, taking National Merit Tests and other scholastic exams for college entrance. These educational extras added a tang to school life, making us realize the importance of our preparatory training.

We are fortunate to have two well-equipped libraries. Mrs. Mercedes Graham heads our junior library, in which are housed over 8,600 books. In addition, there are over 800 educational films and over 500 educational records constantly used by faculty and students.

Our senior library, filled with many reference books, is capably directed by Miss Frances Kraft. We make everyday use of stand-bys: Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature and the helpful World Almanac.

College Day brought representatives from colleges all over the country. Students made appointments with representatives of their choice to discuss room and board fees, tuition, and subjects offered at various colleges.

Aptitude tests for college-bound juniors and seniors were offered throughout the year. National Merit Scholarship, P.S.A.T., S.C.A.T., and subject tests were given to hundreds of students.

Students with a desire to make the most of their educational opportunities were provided with every opportunity.

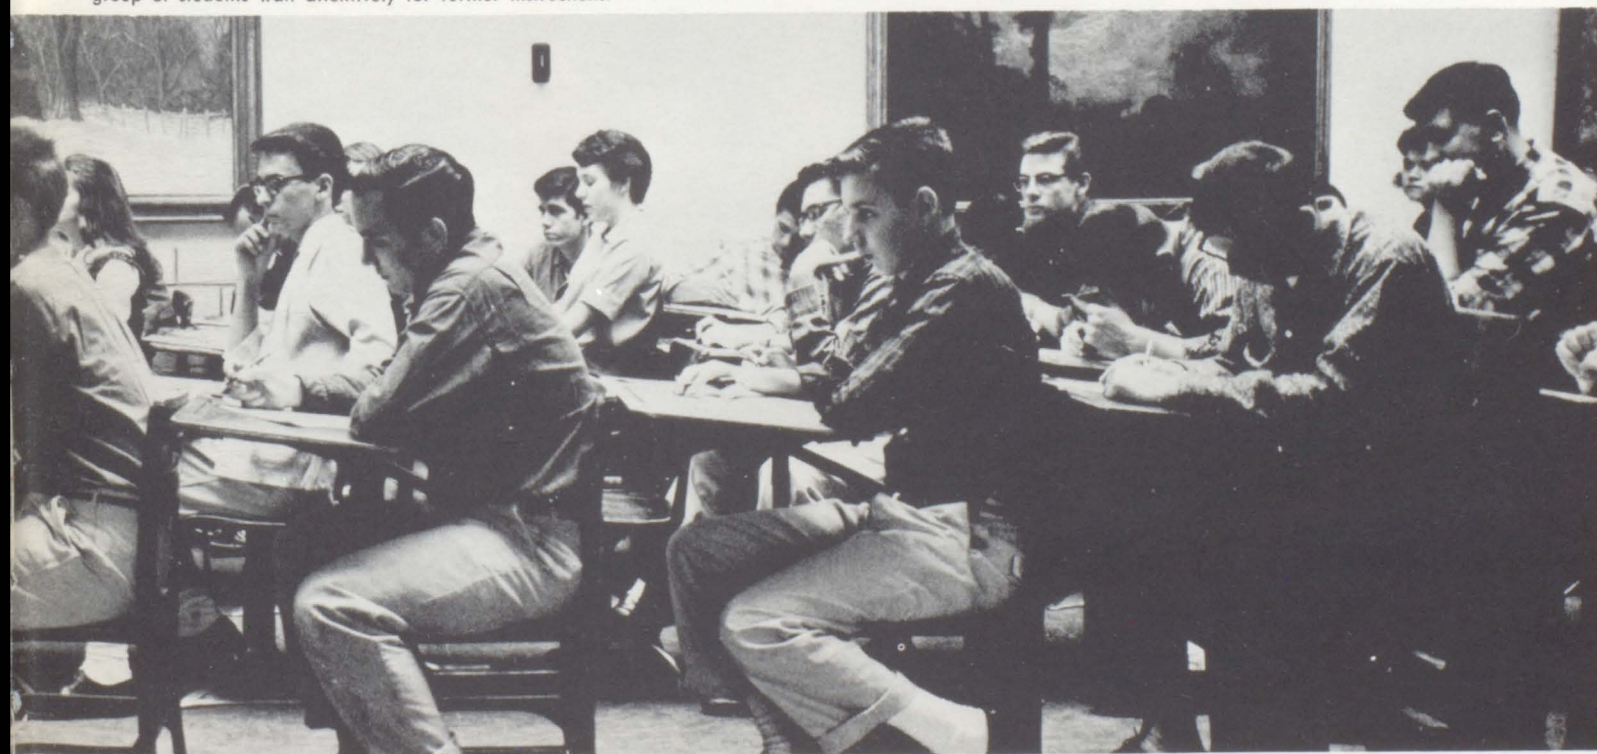

"Boy, oh boy, there must be a million books here!" thinks Dave Reno as he looks through our Senior Library card file.

Lynn Pruitt and her mother listen carefully to Purdue's representative explain college life on College Day.

Realizing the importance of their Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests, this group of students wait attentively for further instructions.

HALLELUJAH

BLESSED ARE WEEKENDS

Our pleasure filled weekends began with a football or a basketball game, Friday night. These games were a must for the entire student body. After the game, it was into a car and to a drive-in for a snack. The game was hashed and rehashed, until much too soon, it was time to break up and wend our weary way home.

After a good night's sleep came Saturday morning. This was our big, big day. Everyone wished it would never end. Housework or shopping for the girls and washing the car or watching a college football game on T.V. for the boys, were the common activities for the day. At six o'clock all these were dropped because date-time was near. Going to a drive-in theater to see "Psycho" or just gathering with friends for an evening of fun were but a few of the many ways Saturday date nights were spent.

On Sunday, after attending church and reading the papers, we usually settled down to the tedious task of homework.

The weekend passed swiftly. Amazingly it was time for bed with Monday morning and school once again in the picture.

In the front seat are Bill Helfrich and Edd Plesko who ask Caryl Brueckheimer and Marvene Sebben whether they would like french fries with their hamburgers. Kitty Dal Pra listens in. Jerry Tarpo and Bill Murray, standing beside the car, notice some of their friends as they leave the drive-in.

Gene Bobik and Karen Crnkovich watch with animation the taffy pulling technique of Ed Bosak and Patty Kapsch.

Although the drive-in theater features the singing of Frank Sinatra, it is not nearly as interesting to Joe Cochran and Frances Pirillo as their popcorn.

Poor Notre Dame missed another tackle says Ken Pittman to Rusty Johnson ruefully as they while away a Saturday afternoon.

Cindy Zajkowski, working at Neal's, assures her customer that she has made the right choice of sweater.

Bob Aimutis is happy making date money while pumping gasoline at Lentini's Service Station.

Rick Vode piles into Ed Kish's go-cart as they both attempt sharp turns.

ACTIVITIES FILL OUR SPARE MOMENTS

Many of our students suffer rushitis after the 3:20 bell rings. If our class hours were often hectic, our after school hours were even more so.

Numerous students maintained part-time jobs, ranging from gas station attendants and stock boys in supermarkets to clerking in dime stores and bakeries.

Holiday parties, surprise parties, or parties of any kind were always lots of fun. Discussing the latest football or basketball game, the latest "steady couple", or the current Johnny Mathis record album were but a few of the many topics at these get-togethers.

Pastimes varied with the weather, but no matter what the season, there is always something for a teenager to do. In the fall, horseback riding, go-carting, and trampolining drew the attention of all those who dared to try. The brisk weather of winter brought to many warm-blooded students ice skating and tobogganing. Miniature golf and tennis often were prescribed as sure cures for "spring fever".

When we realize the many jobs, parties, and pastimes we engage in, it is easy to believe we have had little sparetime and lots of fun.

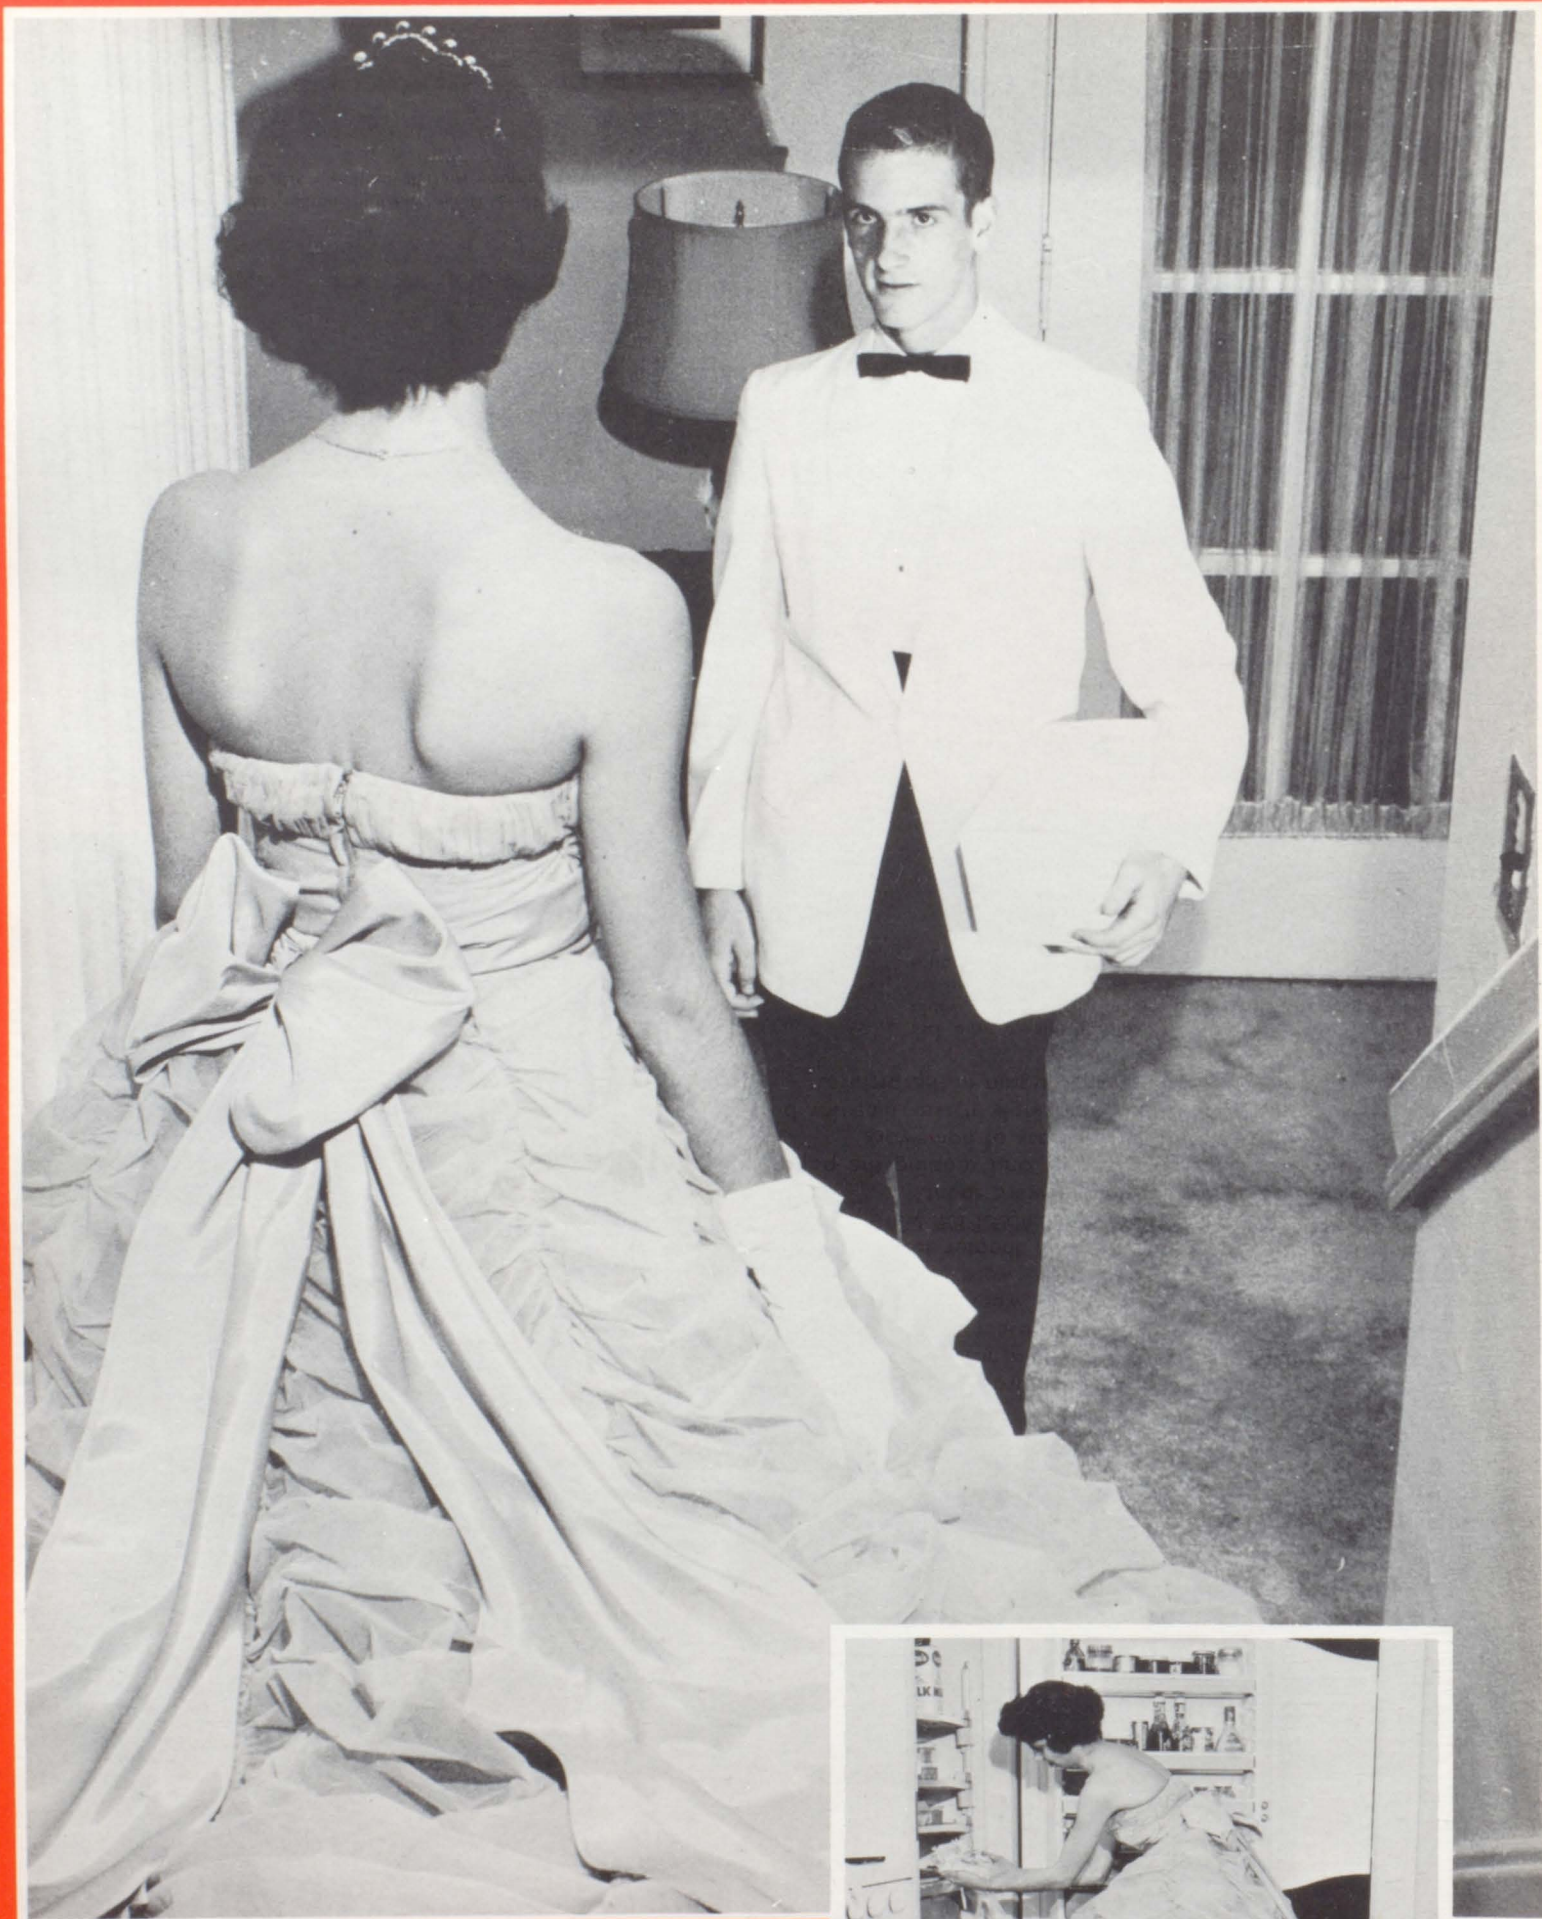

"Dag nab it; missed that apple," gurgles Jon Forgey, amid the laughter and jibes of Pat Angerski, Cheryl Culbertson, Mark Arnold, and Michaelleen Adlesich.

Frank Bardeson, open mouthed, realizes his last jump took him off the canvas.

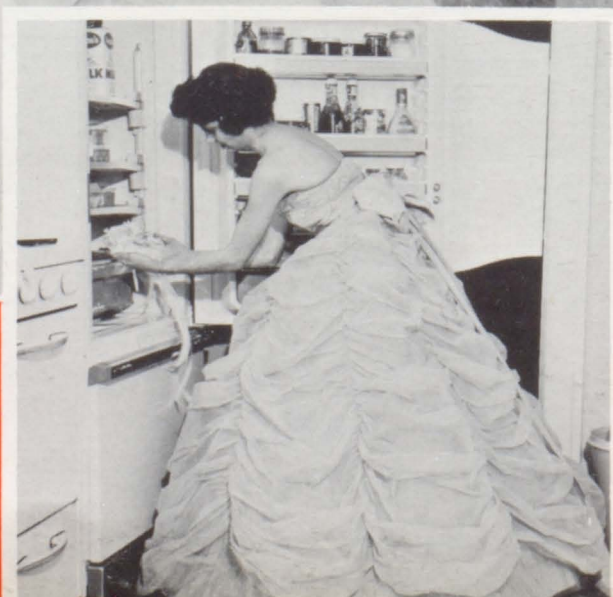

Carole Gregoline, Marilyn Schaefer, Carol Massa, Jane Hannah, Ruth Mahaney, Jean Muir, and Connie Rahutis, discuss the pros and calories of another raid on Mrs. Hannah's ice-box.

Dave Crawford stares in tongue-tied wonder as his date, Bev Majkoski, floats down the stairs in blue organza.

Mickey Blaze, Joe Smith, Dennis Drag, Milan Skoro, Jerry Garapich, and Dave Odum support each other after winning the '60 Little 500. Jeff Torreson and Angelo Stambolos are thinking about their chances in future 500's.

SPECIAL EVENTS HIGHLIGHT THE YEAR

As a cure for the malady of all work and no play, our medicinal special events did much to keep our student body in a healthy frame of mind.

As an opening preliminary to school events beautiful Marcia Watts earned the title of Football-O-Rama Queen September 1, while our team tied Emerson 0-0.

Charlie horses and strained muscles were felt by all who participated in the Little 500 bicycle race this spring. The winning teams received engraved trophies and the right to enter the city Little 500 race.

A most memorable event of our high school life was the Prom, April 28. The boys, dressed in their white jackets and cummerbunds, still marvel about their dates in their billowing gowns. The girls still cherish their beautiful corsages. We danced in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Gary until midnight and then proceeded to Tiebels for dinner and more dancing until early morning. We will never forget how delicious breakfast was, nor how pleasantly tired we were in the morning.

Graduation day, June 13, will soon be here as a finale to our school days. With diploma in hand and our '61 Quill and Blades handy, we will often review all these special events.

There is nothing more poignant than the wait before Baccalaureate Services. Sunday afternoon services help us review our serious high school memories.

Marcia Watts honored our school during her reign as 1960 Football-O-Rama Queen.

Academic Life

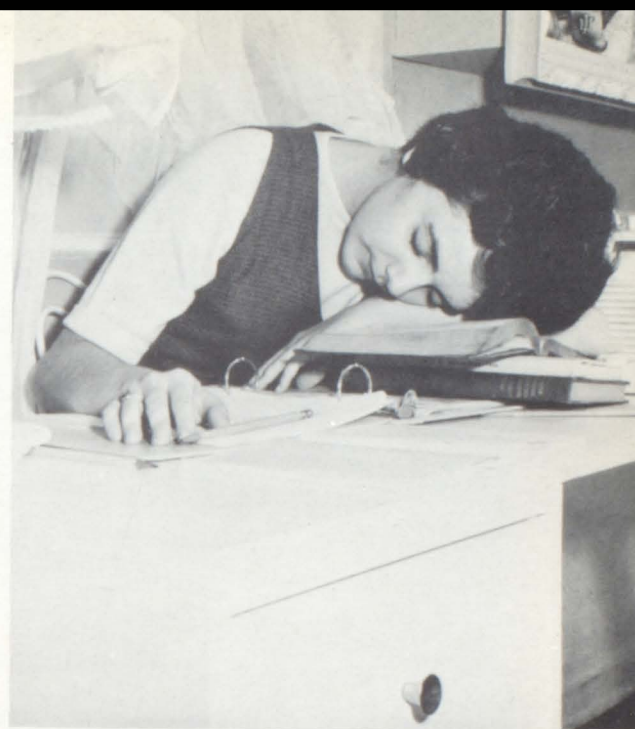

Virginia Gusan, thoughtfully looking for more term topic information, leafs through one of many research books related to her topic.

"That introduction I wrote hours ago is so much better, but where in the world is it? It just has to be here someplace."

Hours and hours later a little nap is mandatory, as Virginia catches 40 winks.

ENGLISH IS LIFE, LITERATURE AND WORK

Reading, writing, listening, and speaking activities are of value in all our educational endeavors. Wherever communication is necessary we recognize the importance of our English training. Equipping every student with a mastery of English requires a planned program to meet personal, social, and occupational demands.

Our freshman year acquaints us with literature and stresses fundamentals of grammar. Ivanhoe, Covered Wagon, Great Expectations, and other novels are studied. "The Necklace," and "Ransom of Red Chief" are only a few of the short stories and authors read and thoughtfully discussed.

Sophomores study miserly Silas Marner and regal Julius Caesar. Fascinating excursions into lives of others help pupils prepare their autobiographies. Lyrical and narrative poetry provide a challenge.

Juniors invade the libraries, armed with note cards, and leave with reference books piled up to their chins. Standardized tests become regular procedure stressing factual subject matter and appropriateness of vocabulary.

First semester Senior English is an absorbing experience dealing in the main with our literary heritage. It begins with the account of the Anglo-Saxons, who gave us our first written literature, and continues through our contemporary English writers.

Senior English also includes use of our composition abilities in preparation for the rough road of college English just ahead of us.

"The word is a verb not a noun!" Mrs. Ella Gilbertson woe-fully informs her confused student, John Hulick.

Edd Plesko, Edwina Alvarez and Sue Hulse agree with David Thiele that the 1960 presidential election was close. Ron Bachinski wants to check the electoral vote while Janice Thompson thinks seriously about the results.

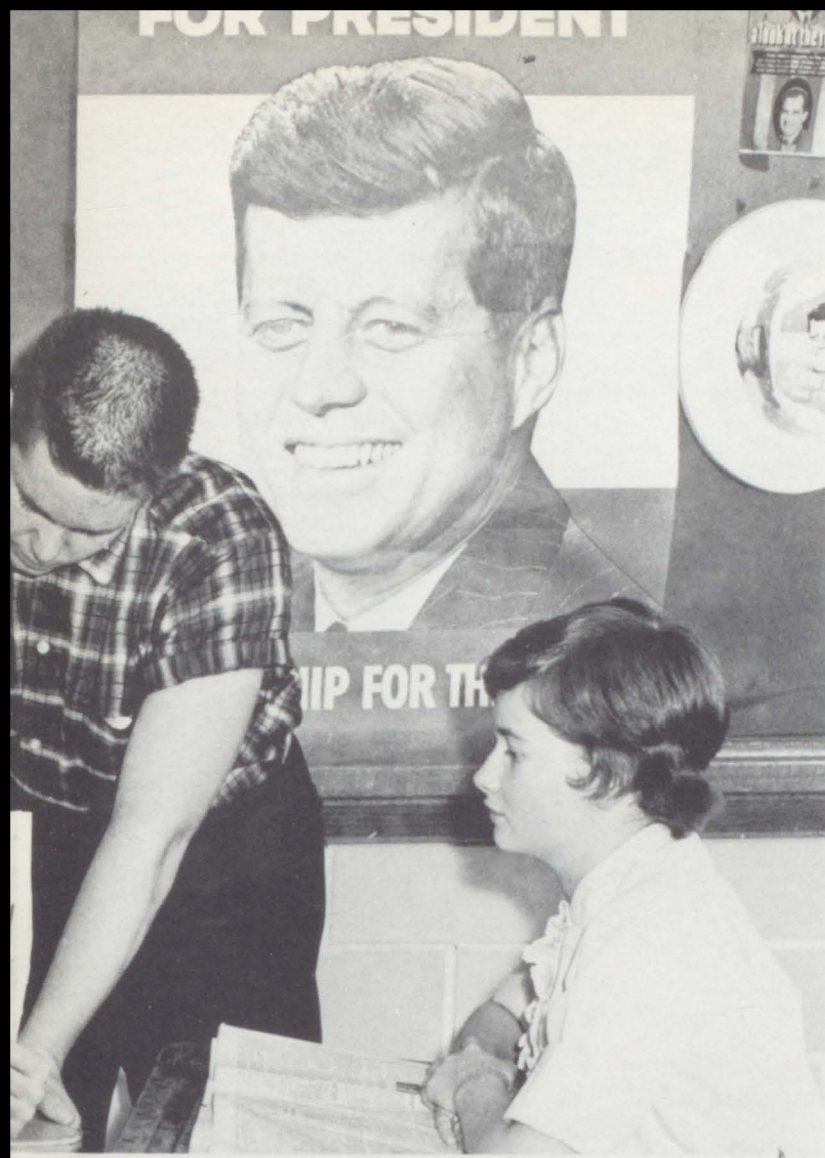

Miss Marie Edwards relates her Japanese trip experiences to Jim Newport, Joe Olds, Camillia Petriskey, Jerry Blazeovich and Kay Auxier. Mr. John Russel, student teacher, wonders if his teaching career will be as wonderful.

Houston Polk and Bill Vorwald had difficulties with their suitcase as they prepared to leave for Boys' State.

SOCIAL STUDIES TEACHES RESPONSIBLE CITIZENSHIP

We saw history in the making during the 1960 presidential election. In the course of the campaign our social studies classes provided us with greater understanding of our election processes and added interest to our quest for knowledge of foreign affairs.

The social studies program consists of courses in community civics, world geography, world history, American history, civics, economics, and World Problems. In these classes the processes of democracy are defined and explained. Group thinking and discussions help students make critical use of mass modes of communication.

Attendance at 1960 election campaign party rallies, visits to federal, state, and local departments of government helped make us realize the responsibilities which freedom gives us.

World history taught us much about the dawn of ancient civilization. We progressed rapidly from the Egyptian pyramids to the Egypt of Nasser, from democracy in Athens to totalitarianism in World War II.

American history provided accounts of the creation of our country and its heritage of liberty, order and justice.

In civics, economics, and World Problems we discussed everything from the organization of government and American freedom of enterprise to African independence, Castro's Cuba and Khrushchev's attempts to bluff us with his blasts.

Students of social studies have lived through a challenging history making year.

Ethel Bone and Frank Stefanelli follow Ed Kis' explanation of the Freedom Shrine in the East Study. These replicas of famous historical documents often provide valuable help to history students.

SCIENCE AND MATH RESOLVE THE WHYS AND WHEREFORES

Miss Helen Rzepka happily concurs with Eleanor Green's math solution in Algebra III.

Harriet Siegle, Nancy Cook, Anita Thomas, and Martha Ward listen as Miss Lola Lemon compares the wing structure of a Monarch butterfly to that of an airplane.

Science and mathematics, two required courses are the stepping stones, the tools with which man has built modern technology.

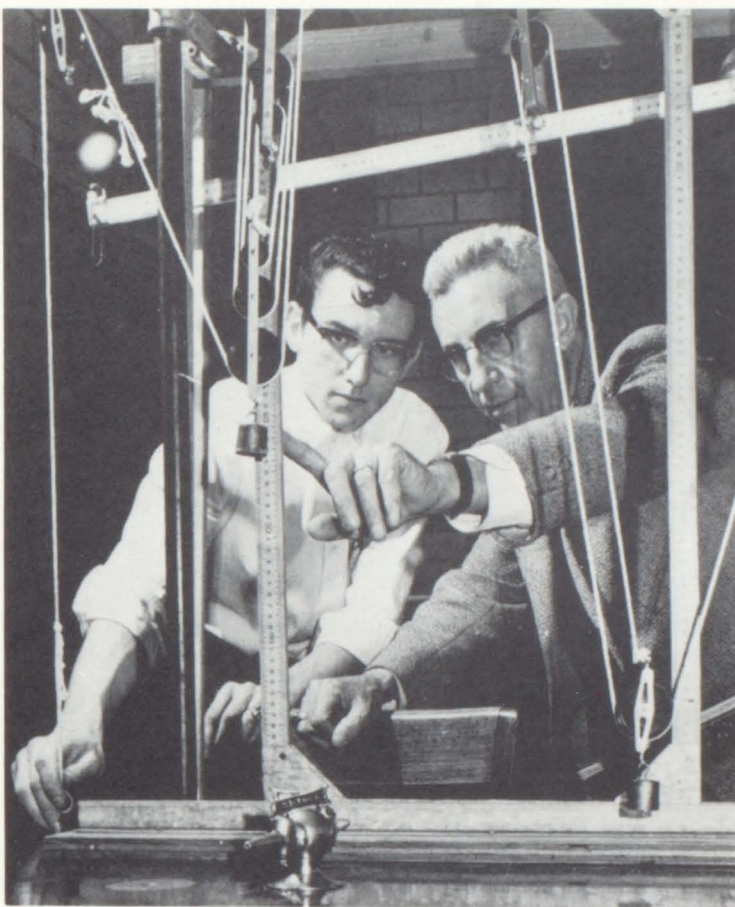

Application of the many principles found in skeletal study in biology coupled with the ability to compute stresses, strains, and lift forces found in the study of physics has given man the airplane. Through mathematics and chemistry, man has unleashed untold power in atomic fission.

Whenever the scent of spoiled eggs fills our halls, we know our chemists are at work. Chemistry has gained such popularity that students are now chosen from a multitude of applicants.

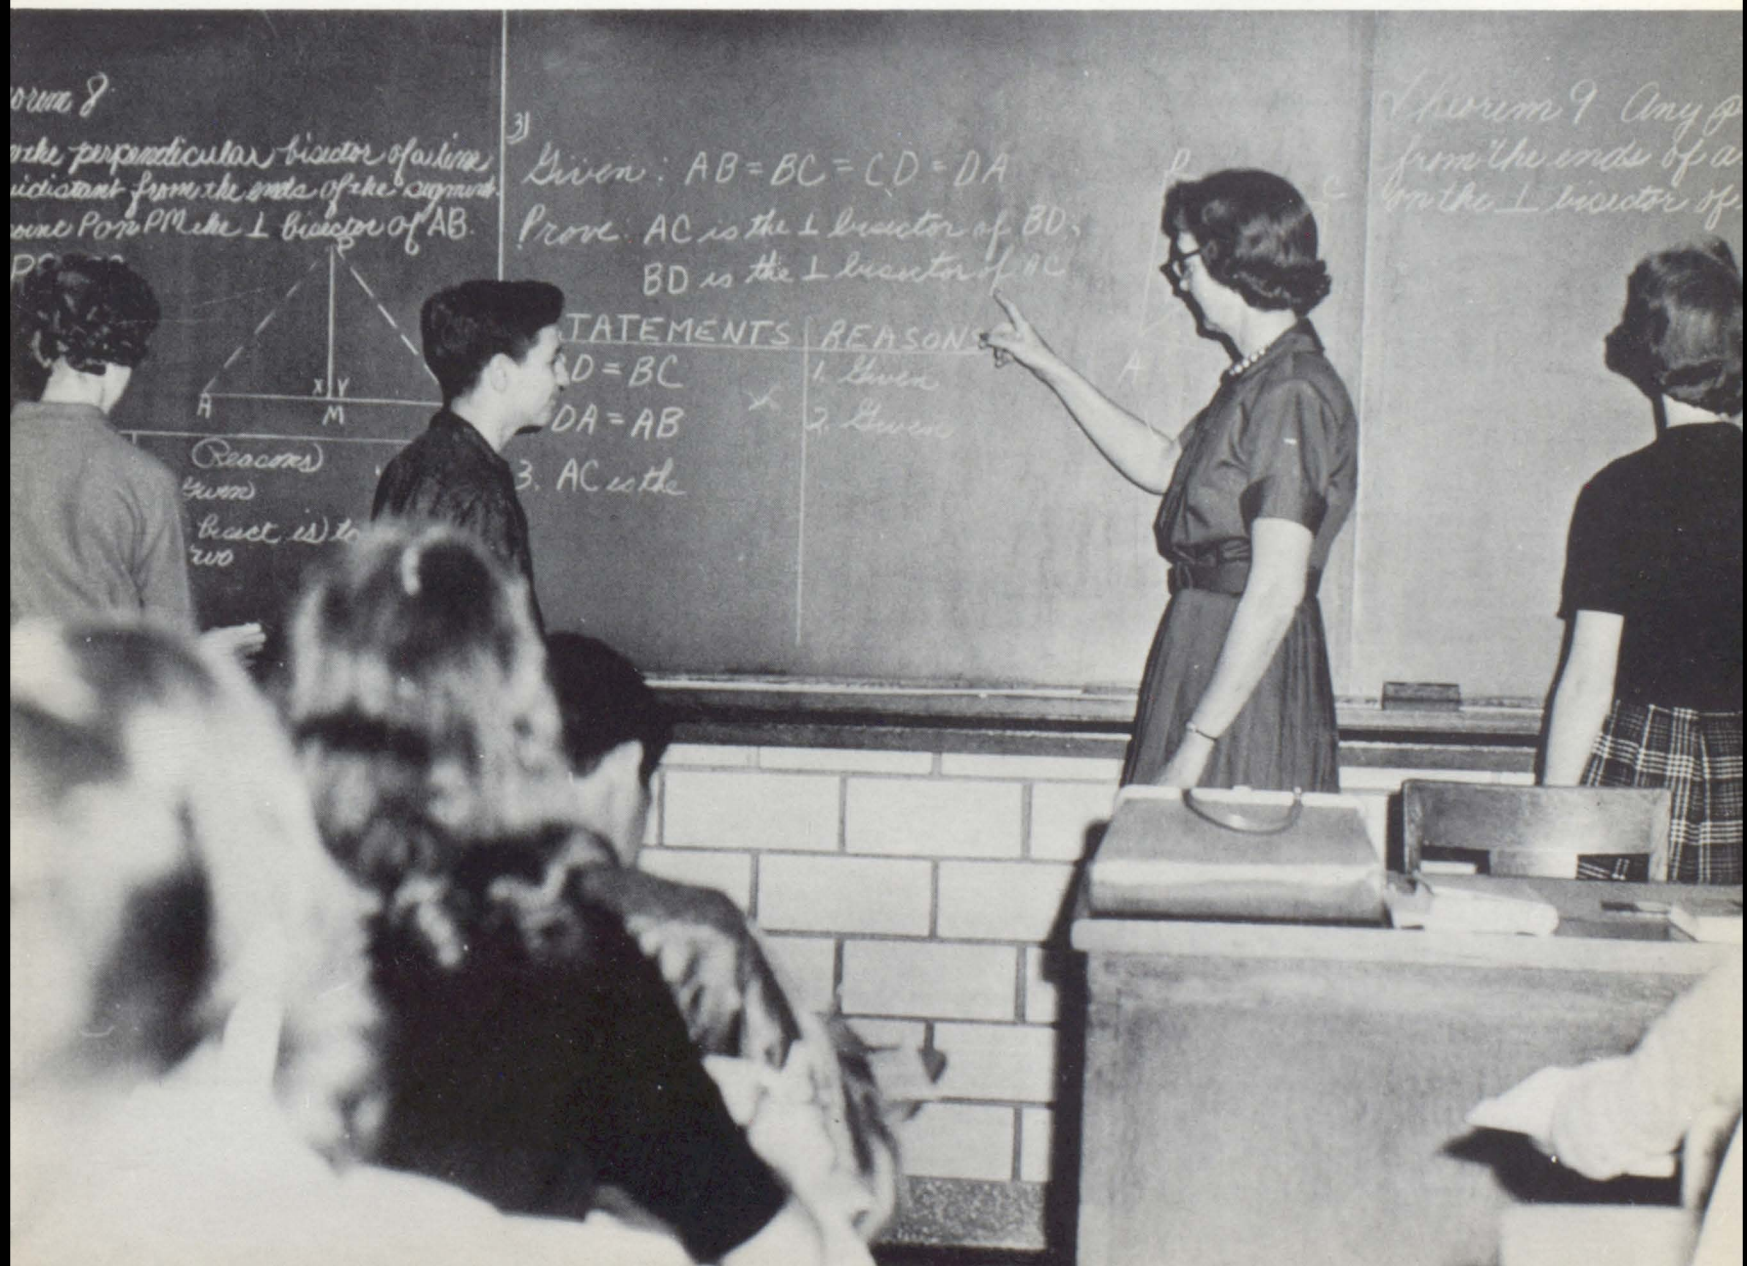

The circumference of the Math department is equal to the sum of its parts: General Math, Algebras I, III, IV, and geometry. Equations, theorems, logarithms, dedecahedrons, and cylinders are all familiar terms to math majors. "Pons Asinorum," bridge of fools, is the apt title given to a plane geometry theory and may be compared to the feeling of many a struggling student.

Nowhere is deep thought, reason, and concentration more necessary than in the study of science and math. We like it and enrollment in these classes was at a peak during the 1960-61 school year.

Using pulleys, fulcrum and weights Mr. John Hayes explains the mechanical intricacies of a problem in physics to Charles Walton.

Mary E. Davis, Dennis Voris and Delores Wineland prove a geometry theorem on the blackboard for the benefit of the plane geometry class. Miss Adele Gwinn is helping Dennis with step three.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES . . . SOW SEEDS FOR UNDERSTANDING

Foreign language students frequently in fancy visit gay Paris, colorful Madrid and ancient Rome.

The study of classical and modern foreign languages develops within the student an understanding and respect for his world neighbors.

The classical language, Latin, helps the student toward a better understanding of his English sentence structure and vocabulary. Knowledge of Roman life, customs, literature and culture are additional rewards garnered in these studies. An elementary Latin course for seventh grade students is now offered. Students may continue the subject over a period of six years from seventh through twelfth grades.

French and Spanish, romance languages, teach students to read, speak, and understand the present day language of continental and Latin American countries. Elementary courses for seventh and eighth grades in Spanish and French have been introduced. At the high school level advanced courses enable the student to become quite proficient in the language program he elects.

Our romance language students who begin in seventh grade obtain a proficiency that eventually may lead them to the United Nations as qualified language experts.

Tape recorders are valuable aids to students who study languages. Dennis Vucic, Deborah Richter, Carol Burt, and JoAnn Placey are practicing their French pronunciations.

David Fesko and Jeanne Baker are reading Spanish dialogue from their textbooks as Miss Angeline Prado and her class listen. This group of eight graders is completing their second year of conversational Spanish.

The material on the bulletin board is explained to seventh grade Latin students, Ted Chabraja, Robert Zimmerman, Ray Smith, Mary Markowicz, and Craig Wardrip by Miss Agnes McLean, Latin teacher.

BUSINESS CLASSES IMPLANT PRINCIPLES OF ACCURACY

Many students not planning to attend college look forward to positions in the world of business. Preparation for these vocations may be made in many of our business courses. Classes are offered in shorthand, typing, office training, bookkeeping, and general business. Junior and senior boys and girls are eligible for these courses.

Shorthand is offered for two years. Students perk up their ears, wear their fingers to the bone to achieve dictation at the rate of 110 words a minute.

Typing I students look and peck. Their first goal is accuracy, then speed. It is hoped that they will be able to type 45 words per minute at their year's end. Students desirous of advanced secretarial work enroll in Typing II. Proper form and style necessary in manuscripts, legal papers, and business letters are taught in this class.

With an eraser worn down to the very tip, a bookkeeping student may heave a sigh of relief, "at last this column checked." Bookkeeping helps a student learn the basic fundamentals of business financing and accounting.

With understanding of general office needs and continued perseverance students go far in the business world through the application of their knowledge.

Mr. Robert Yates checks his class group to be sure that accuracy, supplemented by speed, is the by-word of his typing students.

Shorthand II students are motivated by their keen desire to enter the world of business sometime in the near or distant future.

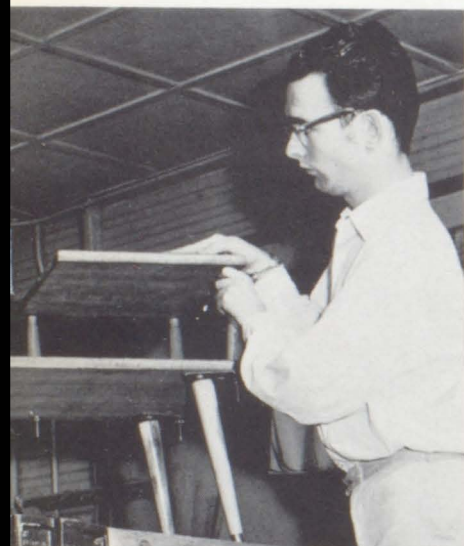

Mr. Reinhardt Tauck explains the fundamentals of a metal shop machine to Bob Cochran.

Eyes gleaming, Mary Kay Mathews and Barbara Bastian watch Linda Komisarckik withdraw a pan of delicious meatloaf, that was prepared in cooking class.

Steve Lesicko finds furniture refinishing a pleasant and satisfying experience in the well equipped woodshop.

VOCATIONAL CLASSES . . . PROMOTE SKILLS AND INTERESTS

The ever growing need for trained man power makes it apparent that continued emphasis will be placed on vocational education.

Such courses as metals, woodworking, radio, printing, mechanical and architectural drawing help prepare many of our young men and women for technical school, industry and the trades. Classes in cooking, home nursing, sewing and home economics introduce new concepts of living to our girls.

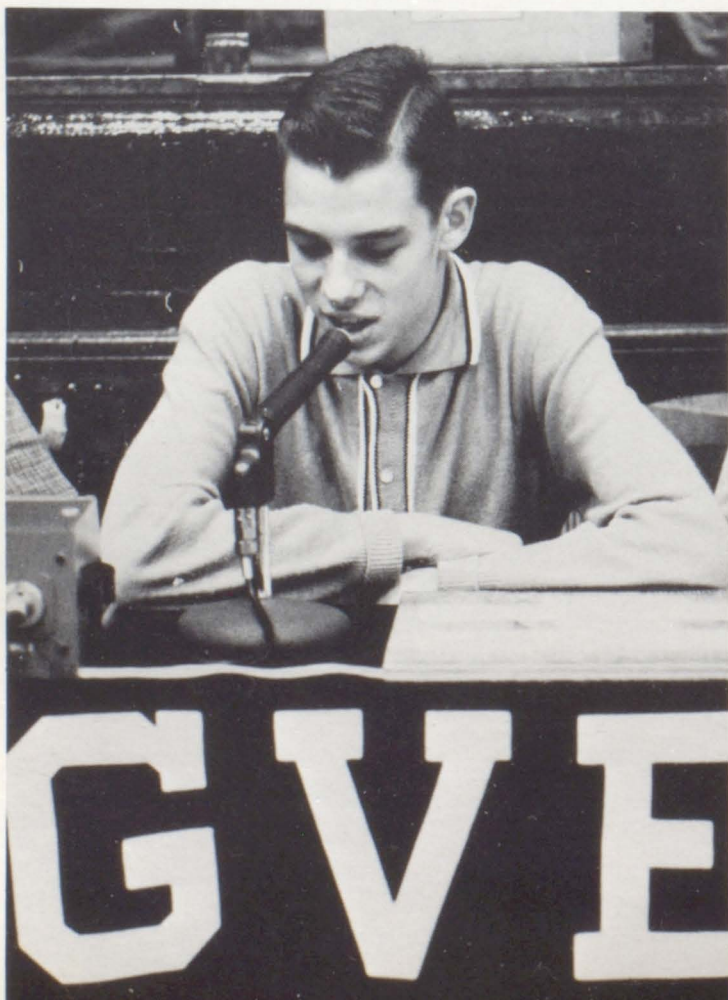

Pride is manifest in all who have worked diligently to finish an end table, book shelf, leather purse, or dream house plans in our vocational classes.

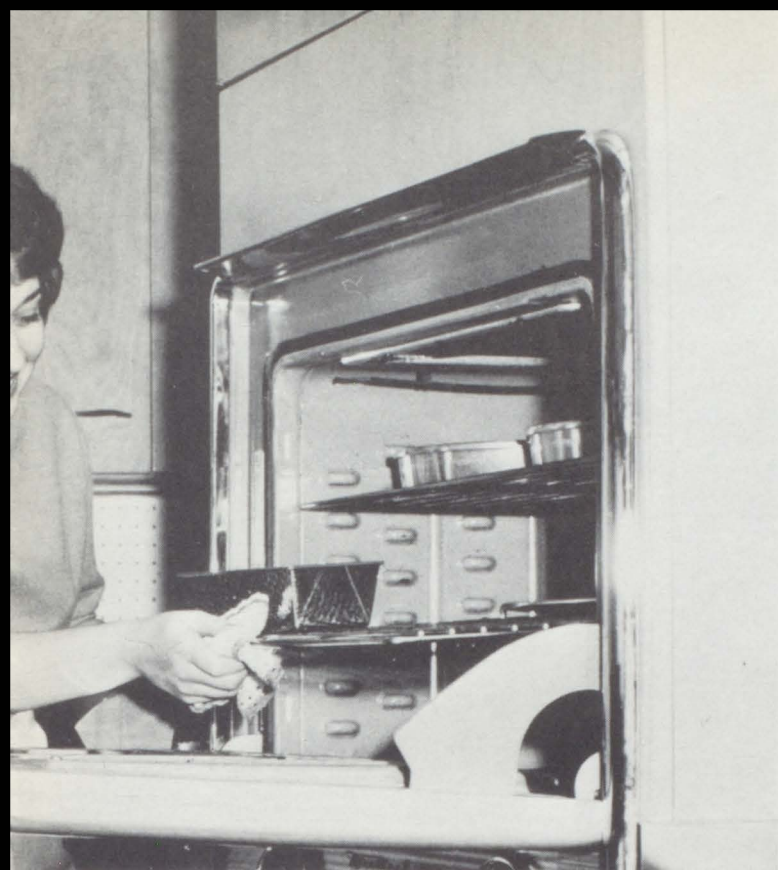

Our ink fingered print shop students work diligently preparing commencement programs, signs, posters, and game schedules in our well equipped print shop.

The tantalizing smells from our cooking room classes do much to bolster feminine morale and continually entice more students to these courses. Homemakers learn baking secrets as well as helping the modern miss become a perfect fashion plate and excellent housewife.

Creative accomplishment is the goal of students enrolled in our vocational programs. Nearly 900 students are enrolled annually in these courses.

Having engineered our station W.G.V.E.'s basketball broadcasts with Glen Park Business Men's funds, Ernie Nims indulges in his first love, broadcasting games from our school station.

Karen Eisenmenger, Louise Cuddington, and Barbara Petrites take turns dressing and undressing the "baby" in home nursing class.

Mr. Joe Mrak explains to Jerry Starcevic, Ronnie Rose, and Tony Massa the need for tight type in print shop work.

CULTURAL COURSES

COMPLEMENT

ACADEMIC CLASSES

Academic courses provide a solid educational background, but many cultural courses help build an appreciation for the beauty of art, drama, and music.

Art plays an important role in the development of a creative mind. Feelings of admiration and interest are provoked in our two art rooms upon viewing the hanging mobile forms, the paintings, and the sketches adorning the walls. Pottery just out of the kiln and clay figures provide students with abiding interests and rewarding hobbies.

Band, orchestra, and choir students spend many hours striving for perfection. Color, both in tone and costume, are present in our vocal and instrumental gatherings. Proper care of musical instruments and development of talent are common occurrences in these classes.

We are proud to have one of the oldest and finest speech departments in the city of Gary. Classes in drama, speech, interpretation, and stage crafts are offered. Hours of work are spent by members of the stage classes in preparation for impressive auditorium productions.

Photography courses offer opportunities for creative work and assist students to identify interests that lead to worthwhile vocations or avocations. All photography in this book is a part of our every day school program.

Shakespeare, who believed in male actors only could learn a great deal from Judy Cermak, Katy Judge, Judy Rider, Michele Oreskovic, Janet Atkosh, Irene Gaydos, Eva Bodo, and Sharon Gnemi, staging "As You Like It" in drama class.

Mary Borjan, Geraldine Woolwine and Lydia Trinoskey accentuate the words for the full musical effect. Jeanine Moore is the piano accompanist.

Gary Damian, Kathy Smith, Terry White, and Alan Gregory spent many hours of practice to make the Junior High musical, "Meet Arizona," a success.

Judy Laudien, Judy Scubelek and Jeff Johnson get sticky fingers when they cover clay masks with paper mache. These projects are part of their work in art.

If you are practicing a new stroke or just resting, our sparkling pool is always enjoyable.

"To pass our driver's training course, you must come to a dead stop at intersections," explains Coach Dom Polizotto to Bernice Warzecha.

After the ninth knee bend, there is always one who finds a tenth impossible.

SPECIALTIES

INDIVIDUALS

Physical education, safety, health, and drivers training are all necessary courses for the growing teenager.

Climbing a rope, wheel-barrow racing, swimming, wrestling, and tumbling limber muscles and develop strength. Good sportsmanship and fair play are integral components of this development and are constantly put in practice in the boys' gym classes.

Our teenage girls keep trim and fit with classes in exercise and participation in such sports as wallball, volleyball, basketball and softball.

In safety, an Indiana course requirement for graduation, we are taught many basic facts regarding the human anatomy. The ability to apply artificial respiration, to administer first aid for shock, to wrap bandages, and to recognize pressure points are musts in this subject.

Driver training, an optional four week class offered during the year, enables the student to drive and manipulate both stick shift and automatically geared cars. Traffic codes and good driving habits are taught to the neophyte driver to help prevent serious accidents.

The speciality courses reward the participants with physical fitness, maturity of action in an emergency, and an understanding of traffic rules and regulations.

"Oops, I couldn't hold his legs any longer!" The boys in gym class find that running wheel-barrow races diminishes some of their vigor and vitality.

Club Life

Before Inaugural Ball tickets go on sale, they must be numbered. Performing this task are Bill Cieadlo and Pam Jordan.

Discussing the constitution of our school are Student Council officers, Ernie Nims, vice-president; Bill Vorwald, president; Nancy Cass, secretary; and Beverly Rabick, treasurer.

"Lustrous Illusion", the Thirty-fifth Annual Inaugural Ball, was the highlight of the winter social season. Under a false ceiling and around a beautifully decorated fountain the two-hundred couples danced to the strains of Pete Fodor and the Music-makers on the night of December 30.

"This meeting will come to order," are the words marking the beginning of each meeting of the Student Council, with Bill Vorwald presiding. Nancy Cass, secretary, takes the floor and reads the minutes. Beverly Rabick gives a report on the financial status and Ernie Nims is on hand as vice-president.

"We must begin with our plans for the future. For Homecoming Week we need floats, cars, publicity, and nominations and election of a queen. There is a yearly calendar to make and a news board to maintain. We have an election in October for the class officers, and an inauguration of all officers and council members to plan for in November. In December the Inaugural Ball will be a fitting climax.

"There is a whole week of fun in store for those handling the annual S.O.S. Humanity Drive. In the spring, we organize the Activity Day program which recognizes those who have attained leadership or scholastic achievement during the past year. — All this, beside the bi-weekly meetings."

This constitutes the introduction given to the Student Council by their sponsor, Mr. William Vorwald, at the first meeting in September.

Membership in the council consists of sixteen class representatives and all club presidents.

Early this summer preparations were underway for the various Girls' Club activities. The Summer Reorganizing Committee is busily at work making programs for the many events that take place during the school year.

Evelyn Szczerba, Maxine Pickle, Carolyn Guba, Marian Duda, Madeline Kucan, Roseanne Rizzo, Judy Burch, Sharon Sofiak, Sharon Ennis, Pat Odinsoff, and Janet Kaminski are illustrating the right and wrong articles of clothing to wear for various school events. The freshman girls are treated to an amateur style show put on by senior girls during Freshman Week.

FEMININE FRIENDSHIPS

Sacrificing hours of summer leisure, members of Girls' Club began cutting out socks and decorations in preparation for one of the biggest projects of their social agenda, Freshman Week. The highlight of the exciting week was the annual Sock Hop. As a result of this week, the freshmen were better acquainted with the students, faculty, and most of their school.

Electing a homeroom representative and an alternate provides an opportunity for each homeroom to participate in the club's activities.

Claire Malis, presiding as president over the meetings, set the wheels in motion for the Birthday Potluck, the Christmas stag dance, the corsage sale at Christmas time, the Senior Reception, bi-weekly faculty teas, the Ma, Pa, and Me Banquet, the Girls' Club Sing, and visits to the old folks' home. The social year was brought to an end with the Turn-a-bout.

Officers included Sandy Panchak, who took roll and read the minutes as secretary. Darlene Bara gave the treasurer's report. Junior vice-president and sophomore vice-president were Barb Polizzotto and Linda Komisarck.

Miss Shirley Bryan, Miss Dorothy Kouvelas, and Miss Renee Siegle sponsor Girls' Club.

Mrs. Helen Penny serves tea to the freshman girls at the annual Mother-Daughter Tea. This is also one of the important activities of the Freshman Week.

One of the highlights of the Christmas season is the sale of corsages by Girls' Club. Tessie Hancock, Maxine Pickle, Lynne Tone, Ceres Ann Svetnoff, and Pat Vellines work on the corsages before the sale begins.

BOOSTER CLUB BUILDS OUR "L' ESPIRIT DE CORPS"

Hail to Lew Wallace! With this song, Booster Club, the official vocal chorus in charge of cheering at all athletic functions, was capably led this year by the president, Sharon Collins. She directed the construction of the Homecoming float, while Carol Mackanos was the goodwill representative, who served in the capacity of vice-president. Penny Pappas jotted down the meeting notes while Rita Reinke, as the treasurer, took care of the proceeds received from the sale of basketball schedule decalcs, megaphones, and tickets for the annual Booster club turn-a-bout and stag dances.

The club's official aim is to foster and encourage effective and active response and participation in all of the school sponsored clubs and activities.

Before any business is transacted it must first be presented to the backbone of the club, the Board of Directors, composed of a hard-working body of girls elected in groups of two from each class. They handle all business of the Club under the guidance of the club's sponsors, Mr. George Stroia and Miss Mary J. Stubbs. The board is best known for its enthusiastic encouragement at the school's athletic contests.

Booster Club is a generating force from which flows a constant supply of morale raising energy.

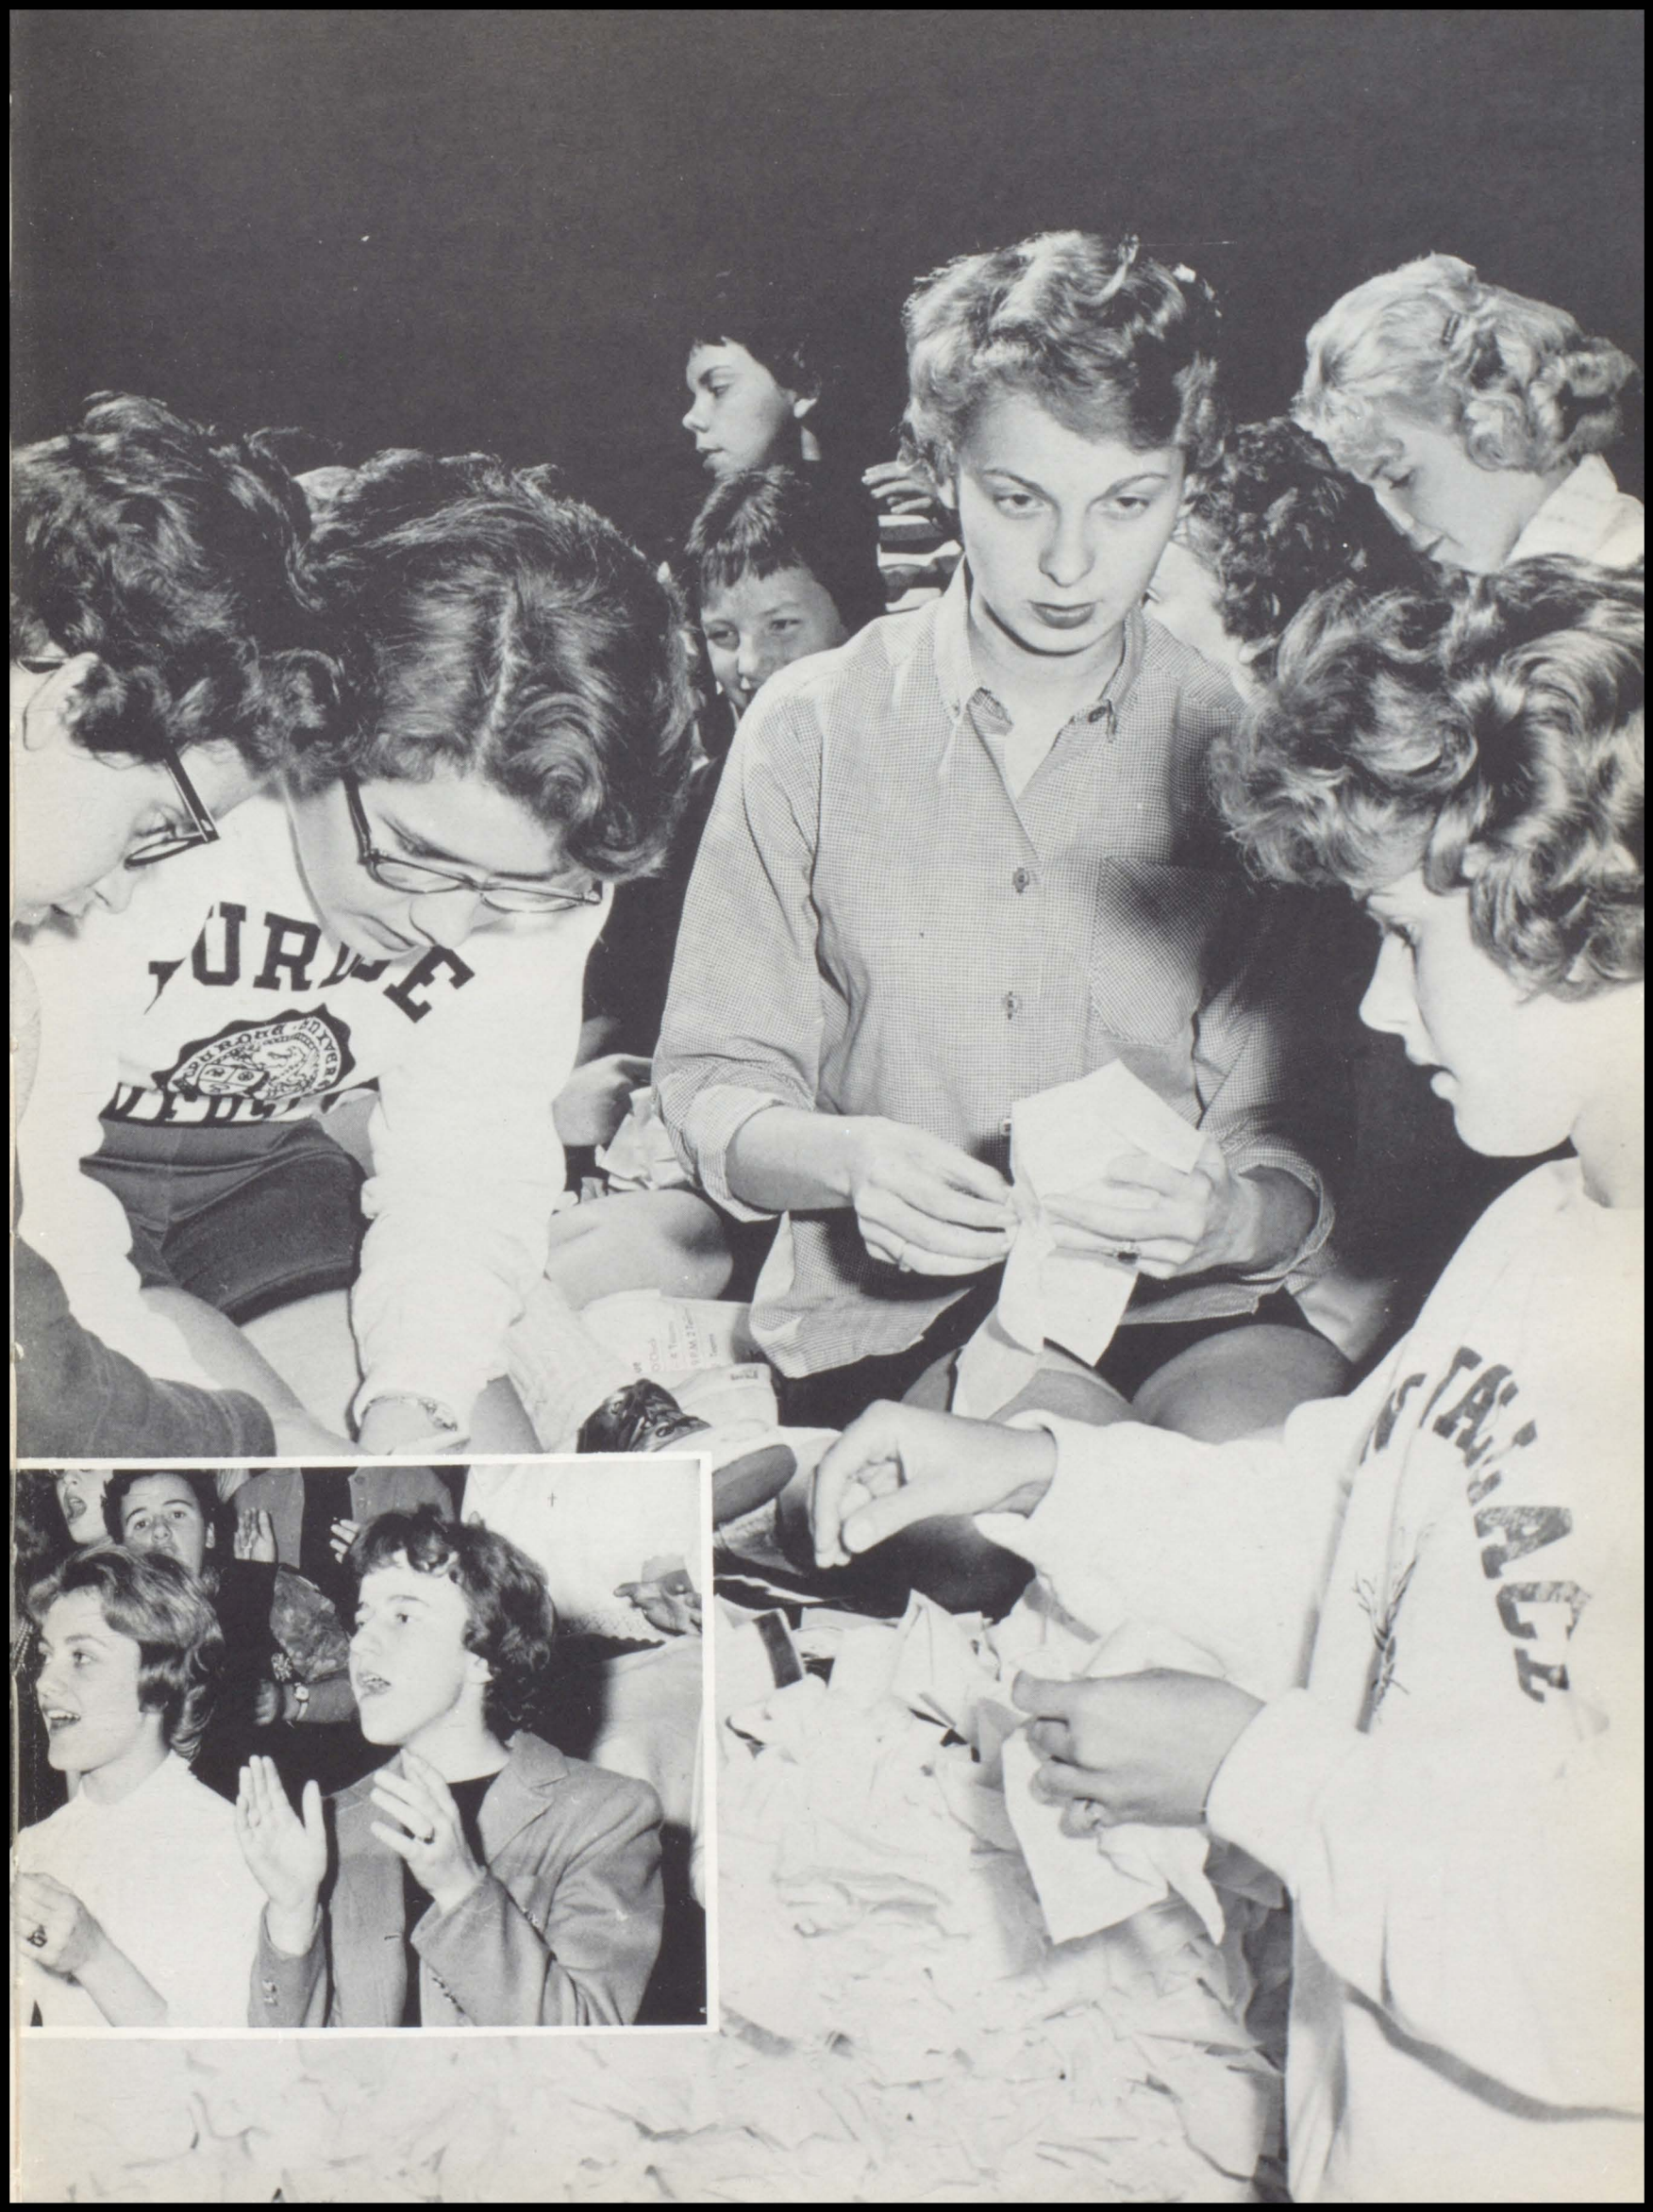

Pulling tissue paper through chicken wire is one way of preparing decorations for the Homecoming float, the pride of the Booster Club. Penny Pappas, Connie Rahutis, Theresa Harrison, and Carole Gregoline spent hours planning for the Homecoming Parade.

"Support your team! Go to the games!" The Board of Directors use these posters urging the students to attend the games. Making the signs are Board of Directors, Karen Kusta, Claire Malis, Judy Mehok, Nancy Pinkerton, and Connie Rahutis.

One of the ways in which the F.T.A. raises money for their numerous activities is through the sale of potato chips. Linda Marrs and Martha Dalby sell these after school delights to Mary Jo Mills and Debby Richter.

F.T.A. INSPIRES OUR YOUNG HOPEFULS

The officers of F.T.A. make all their favors and programs for their induction services. Working at this activity are Jane Hannah, junior vice-president; Judi Jelusich, president; Connie Rahutis, historian; Mary Goluch, senior vice-president; Sue Wilson, secretary; and Ruth Anderson treasurer.

One of the largest, and most active clubs is the Future Teachers of America. Each of the 160 members learns the duties and responsibilities of a teacher and has an opportunity to apply them in a specially designed program of assisting.

Our monthly meetings were directed toward all phases of the teaching profession. Special speakers discussed in detail such teaching areas as journalism, high school, elementary, academic and special classes.

During the year the members participated in college field trips to Ball State and Northwestern, conventions, and the Lake County F.T.A. Round-up.

The sale of stationery, potato chips, and the sponsorship of an annual spring dance are some of the ways by which projects are financed.

Preparing American Education Week window display's, assisting teachers during study periods, presenting Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets, and serving as student guides are some of many services performed by F.T.A. members.

Judi Jelusich, president, was assisted by Mary Goluch, senior vice-president, and Jane Hannah, junior vice-president. Sue Wilson recorded the minutes of each meeting, while Ruth Anderson handled the clubs' funds and Connie Rahutis kept the scrap book.

The F.T.A. is sponsored by Miss Marie Edwards and Mrs. Gerrie Ventura.

"Will I ever come across a perfect paper?" Pat Wrobel asks herself as she corrects papers for one of the teachers in the F.T.A. assisting program.

LANGUAGE CLUBS CULTIVATE BETTER UNDERSTANDING

To further study of culture in other lands, explore literature, folklore, and ways of life, our students are encouraged and invited to meetings of the language clubs, Inkpot, Les Parisiens, Olympians, and Club Hispania.

Under sponsorship of Miss Dagna Simpson, Inkpot had many interesting panel discussions centered on American literature. Marcia Watts was the club president and Sharon Sofiak served as vice-president. Marian Duda took the minutes at each meeting, while Judy Mehok collected the funds as treasurer.

Les Parisiens members enjoyed their annual trip to Chicago by attending a theater featuring the famous pantomimist, Marcel Marceau. President of the club was Mary Goluch; vice-president, Sally Mireles; secretary, Joan Trudell; treasurer, Barb Kubiak; social chairman, Arlene Balakir; and program chairman, Ruth Anderson. Sponsorship was provided by Mrs. Jeannette Hady.

Latin Club, Olympians, sponsored by Miss Agnes McLean, had as its officers, Consul Supremus, Donna Zweiban; Consul Secundus, Nancy Cass; Scriba, Linda Matanich; Quaestor, Kenneth Kepchar; and Aedile, Mike McCarney. Happy hours were spent in preparation for the Crown Point and Indianapolis Latin contests.

Highlighting Club Hispania's year was their style show. All members participated in native costumes. Miss Mary Kay Bindas sponsored the organization. Carol Massa was president; vice-president was Don Maroudas; Marcian Watts was secretary, and Janet Kaminski was treasurer.

SCIENCE CLUBS ADVANCE TOWARD THE MOON

The beeping of Sputniks and Vanguards in the past few years has encouraged members of Astronomy Club to increase their scientific knowledge and activities. The club was able to view the astronomical bodies and satellites with the aid of a six-inch telescope. A camera installed in the telescope enabled members to photograph some of the sights they viewed.

During the course of the school year, trips were sponsored by Mr. James Hill to the Adler Planetarium in Chicago and Dearborn Observatory on Northwestern University campus.

Officers for the club included Irene Gaydos, president; Camillia Petriskey, vice-president; Kathy Turza, treasurer; and Loretta Zakzewski, secretary.

Serving the school, the community, and stimulating an interest in the natural sciences are the main functions of the Biology Club.

The club participated in a series of Audubon programs, filling a Christmas food basket, and selling candy and notebook paper. Some meetings had speakers who discussed scientific subjects. Field trips to science museums are a part of the yearly program.

Membership in Biology Club is not all work as the group has a Christmas party and an annual picnic.

Sandra Meinke, president, was assisted by Donna Berns, vice-president. Dorothy Yedinak served as secretary-treasurer with the aid of Rosemarie Bruno. Jeanette Benjamin and Patti Putt handled all the clubs' social plans and publicity.

Miss Lola Lemon sponsors the club.

A broader understanding of school subjects is made possible by the use of films. Walter Urycki and Norm Vigna are two of the people that show these films.

MOVIES AND MOVES PLAY BIG ROLE EVERY DAY

It's not an uncommon sight in the halls of our school to see several harried boys pushing small, four-wheeled carts around.

These boys come from the audio-visual department. Their job is to help spread knowledge through the use of audio-visual aids. Through these films the teachers are better able to explain the election of the President or how to diagram a sentence.

Mr. George Strimbu teaches the audio-visual members to handle their equipment quickly and efficiently and the proper way to maintain the machines and the way in which they are to be used.

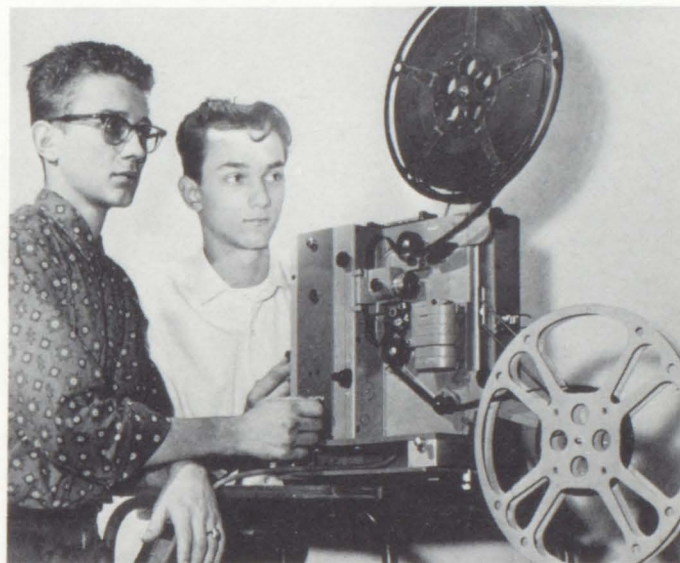

If playing chess is one of your favorite pastimes or if you possess the desire to learn the game the Chess Club will welcome you.

Nearly every night after school the members of the Chess Club meet. Under the sponsorship of Mr. George Orlich and Mr. Richard Doenges, the techniques of the game are learned.

The evening begins with finding yourself a chess partner and settling down to hours of patience, learning, and skillful maneuvering, climaxed by the cry, "Checkmate!"

The Chess Club is young and relatively small, but its aims are high. Chessmen are concerned with the promotion of the game and the creation of intra and inter school chess tournaments.

From the ranks of the players, Pete Baranko served as president, Kenneth Kepchar as his assistant. Sharon D'Lugai was secretary while Norma Ference kept a record of the funds.

Pete Baranko patiently teaches Maureen Barlock and Ken Kepchar the ancient art of the game of chess.

COUNCIL AND CREW . . KEEP AUDITORIUM BUSY

When programs are planned for the auditorium, such as Vespers, Activity Day, class meetings, and concerts, Auditorium Council members see that all people attending are seated and receive programs. Stage Crew works behind the scenes to be certain the lighting is adequate and all the props are placed properly.

Before one becomes a full member of the Auditorium Council, he must show enthusiasm by going through a hectic week of carrying umbrellas, passing around toothpicks, and remaining completely silent for a day. The climax of this week is a formal induction of new members.

Judy Chelle is president of Auditorium Council. Since there was a tie, Mary Borjan and Bonnie Kay Reid, together, served as vice-president. Linda Matanich was treasurer and Marilyn Young was secretary. Pat Mack took charge of all the ushers.

Members of the Stage Crew are at first instructed of different subjects relating to the task of operating the lighting switches, drawing the curtain, setting up scenes for various presentations, and many more items concerning behind the stage activities.

All the activities of both Auditorium Council and Stage Crew are handled by Mrs. Mattie Hannsz.

MAJORETTES AND JUNIOR STUDENT COUNCIL STEP HIGH AND STEP AHEAD

Stepping high, wide and handsome were our Majorettes. Along with our band, these eight agile misses supplied the half-time entertainment at most of our home football games. They were often seen marching with the band, as well as entertaining the half-time crowds with a new addition to their routine, twirling fire batons.

Doris Ferguson was chosen as the head majorette by the sponsor, Mr. Eugene Teeter. She and the members of the group sometimes take part in twirling contests.

Increasing its status with each year the Junior Student Council, under the leadership of Mrs. Geraldine Ventura and Mr. Lawrence Derthick, has become one of the active groups in our junior high school.

Students express their opinions concerning matters of training good leaders. They learn to unite many interests, exhibit good citizenship, and provide for various student needs.

Proceeds from their activities went to a Japanese Orphan Fund, where needs were supplied for a Japanese student.

The Council sponsored the "White House Hop" and the Eighth Grade Party.

Marcy Nordlund was club president, with David Shirk as vice-president. Nancy Beck kept the minutes while Terry Guthrie handled all money matters.

BOYS' CLUB BRINGS TOMORROW'S MEN TOGETHER

Today's boys will soon be tomorrow's men. To encourage all male students in high school to begin thinking of their future years is part of the training provided by membership in the Boys' Club.

Promoting school activities and expressing views on numerous subjects are on the agenda for Boys' Club.

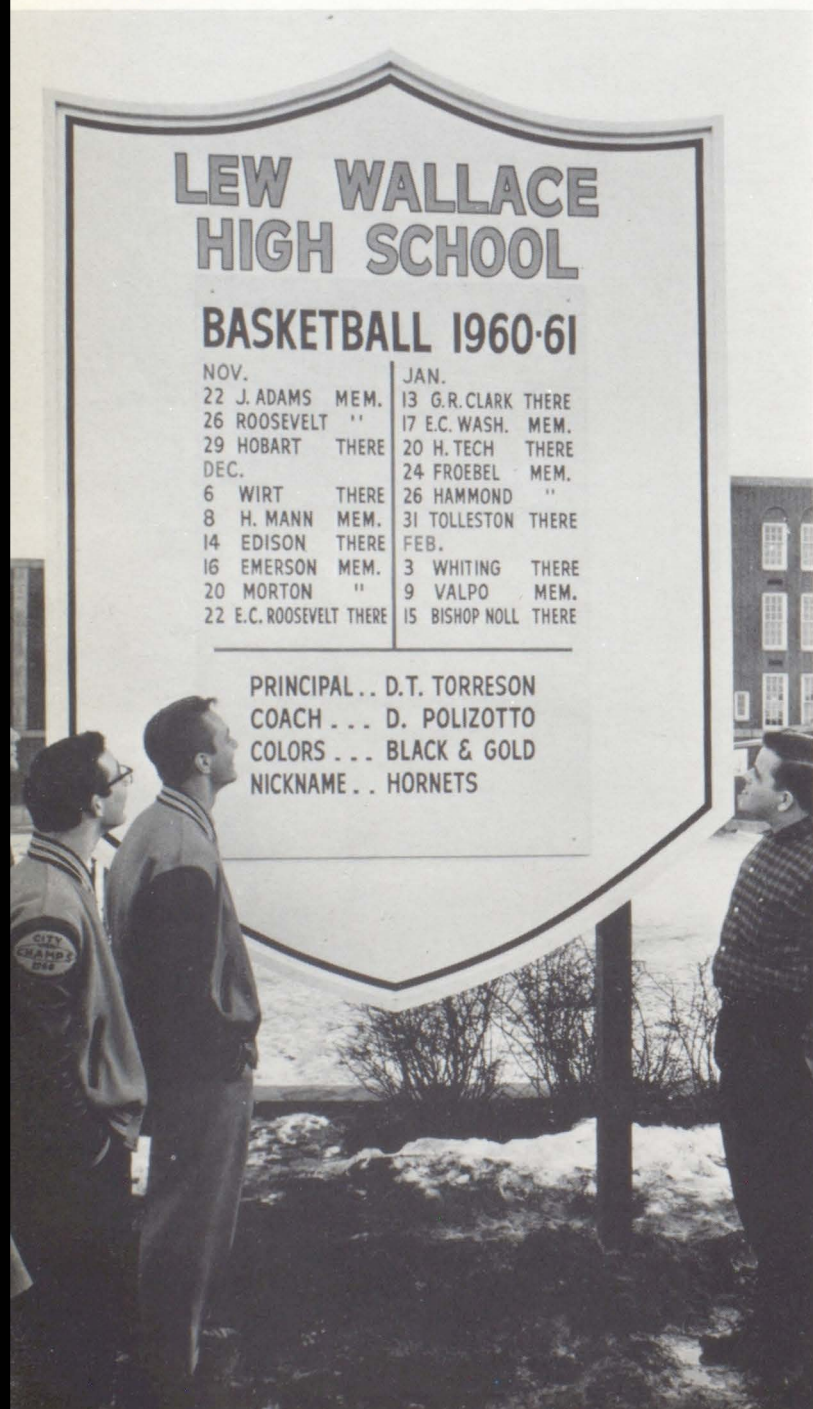

Situated on the 45th Avenue entrance to our school is a schedule of all our basketball games played this season. A committee contacted Mr. Michael Pengyon, Advertising Manager of the Coca-Cola Company, who arranged for the company to donate the athletic board.

Committee members supplied the student body with a social calendar marking all important school dates.

Mr. George Stroia, Mr. Edward Troy, Mr. Richard Doenges, and Mr. Elmer Molchan are the organization's sponsors.

Boys' Club officers include Bill Wilczynski, president; Rick Yover, vice-president; Chuck Eckert, secretary; Gene Velchek, treasurer; and Bob Trella, social chairman.

ROTC TRAINS AMERICA'S PROTECTORS

The sounds of the bugle and drums each morning usher in the solemn raising of the flag in front of our school. This daily task is performed by members of the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Sergeant Daryl R. Sturm instructs the boys in leadership, neatness in all phases of the word, and responsibilities to the nation. The ROTC students also study the basic elements of the military department of government.

Raising the flag is not the only activity in which members of ROTC participate. The organization also maintains a Drill Team, Rifle Team, and a Flag Team through which they may compete with other such groups throughout the city.

At various intervals ROTC is engaged in preparation for regular military inspections by General George Bush.

Nominating and selecting an Honorary Cadet Colonel and two Honorary Captains is one of their many tasks each year. The corps chose Barbara Jansen as Honorary Colonel and Theresa Harrison and Joyce Mrak as Honorary Captains this season.

ROTC sponsors the school Military Ball and the city Military Ball as their two biggest social events of the year.

Recognition of the highest ranking ROTC members closes out the year.

Honorary Cadet Captain, Theresa Harrison; Honorary Cadet Colonel, Barbara Jansen; Honorary Cadet Captain, Joyce Mrak.

"Yes sir, and then I will move my forces onto the left flank," Captain Reuben Sanchez says as he, Colonel Houston Palk, and Sergeant Daryl Sturm, ROTC Commander, discuss a forthcoming maneuver.

WHITE CAPS AND RADIO DEPARTMENT . . . INITIATE FUTURE OCCUPATIONS

Girls wishing to follow in the footsteps of Florence Nightingale belong to White Caps. The club gives the girls a chance to consider the requirements and responsibilities of nursing. Miss Lois Bjelland, Mrs. Helen Penny, and Mrs. Kathleen Shults, club sponsors, aid the future nurses in learning many things.

During the Christmas season White Caps bring cheer to many patients in local hospitals by carolling. Filling a Christmas basket for some needy family is also one of their worthy projects. "Candy Stripers", volunteer hospital aids, are also sponsored by White Caps.

White Caps include among their social activities a formal initiation, a Christmas party, and a potluck in the spring.

Donna Wilden is the club's president, and Barbara Sullivan is vice-president. Linda Moore is secretary and Kathy Bronson is treasurer.

If you dailed Gary's Voice of Education, radio station W.G.V.E., during the year, you would have been able to listen to all our home games, presentations by the Concert Band and Orchestra, the speech, English, and Civic classes, and the Junior and Senior Choir.

The responsibility for operating the school radio station rests with Mr. Lawrence Ventura.

The club is planning to set up a ham radio station in the near future and to practice the Morse code.

Dennis Gilbey is the club's president and Paul Shaffer is the vice-president. Bruce Robbins handles the club's financial matters.

SENIOR HONOR SOCIETY KINDLES LIGHT OF KNOWLEDGE

Glowing candles, high hopes, and a general feeling of excitement are part of the setting for the Senior Honor Society induction.

The four qualities of service, scholarship, leadership, and character, plus the maintenance of a B average, are the prerequisites for the admittance of a maximum of five per cent of the junior class and fifteen per cent of the senior class to the society. Students who have met these standards are voted on by the high school faculty members.

Admission to the Senior Honor Society is the highest honor that can be attained by a high school student. It is a recognition of excellence in every line of endeavor.

Michael Brown was elected president of the society. Susan Hart was chosen as vice-president. Nancy Cass recorded the minutes of every meeting and Carol Mackanos handled the money matters of the organization.

The sponsors of the Senior Honor Society are Mr. Bernard Shirk, Mr. Willis McAllister, and Mrs. Jeannette Hady.

CHORAL GROUPS SEND MUSIC THROUGH THE SCHOOL

The harmonious tones blended by the four choral groups lend a shining light to many school activities. These groups are the Concert Choir, Girls' Glee Club, and Girls' Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Alfred Fissinger, and the Lewettes, with Mrs. Lorain Halsall as sponsor.

The groups perform at Vespers, Spring Recital, Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises. They are constantly engaged in long hours of practice.

"Red Sales in the Sunset" took the couples on a sea cruise which was the choral department's decorating effect for their informal couple dance.

Girls interested in choral work may become members of Girls' Chorus. Carolyn Sorba headed the Girls' Chorus with Janet Plesac as her assistant. Della Andrews took the minutes while Colette Kolveck handled the club funds.

Tessie Hancock led the Girls' Glee Club and Frances Struble served as the vice-president. Barbara Green jotted down the minutes of the meetings and Rose Mastroianne was in charge of all financial matters.

Concert Choir consists of the more highly experienced vocalists. Serving as president was Patty Kapsch. Tom Zaradich assisted her as vice-president. Nancy Tichansky was secretary and the office of treasurer was filled by Judy Cermak.

The Lewettes sing for various social events as well as for Vespers and other school affairs.

Lewettes have found that they need many practice sessions before their presentations. They are Carol Massa, Jeanine Moore, Judy Cermak, Patty Kapsch, Jeanne Millan, and Judy Ryder with Sandra Smock seated at the piano. Nancy Toth, another Lewette, was absent for the picture.

In an atmosphere of solemn reverence, Patty Kapsch and Ed Kozicki preside as readers at the annual Vespers Service.

BAND AND ORCHESTRA MAKE BEAUTIFUL MUSIC TOGETHER

The sound of music may be heard through both the instrumental divisions of our music department.

The concert band, seventy-seven musicians directed by Mr. Eugene Teeter, had an extremely musical season. They participated in the Purdue Band Day and District and State Solo and Ensemble Contests. The many contributions of the band to our football half-time programs, pep assemblies, and concerts were loudly applauded.

Bill Foldi as drum major led the band in their marches onto the football field, in contests, and parades. Bill also was president of the band organization. Vice-president, Sandra Meinke, assisted him, while Jerald Klym handled the minutes and funds as secretary-treasurer. Dave Klym managed the band in all its numerous events.

Mr. John Simons directs the Concert Orchestra. This group promotes their music educational goal by performing at concerts, providing music for auditorium presentations, Commencement, and other school functions, and by taking part in the Solo and Ensemble Contests.

Presiding officers for this year were Don Reynolds, president; Ruth Anderson, vice-president; Ron Urban, secretary; and Michael Brown, manager.

We are very proud to be able to say that our school is one of the few in the United States that puts out a high school publication in which all photography is the work of the high school students.

Few of us realize the tedious hours of work that are involved in fulfilling a single photographic assignment for either of our publications.

Once the assignment card is brought into the photography room and posted on the bulletin board, a chain reaction starts in.

First Mr. George Strimbu, the photography instructor, gives the assignment with instructions as to the techniques involved in order to achieve the desired results. After carefully checking his photographic equipment and film, the photographer reports to the designated location to take the picture.

After the photograph has been taken it is then transferred into the darkroom where the latent image is developed. The negative is next sent into the printing room where the final print is made according to the specification of the journalism department.

This same process is repeated hundreds of times each year as the students prepare photographs for both the QUILL AND BLADE and the PHILOSOPHER.

PHILOSOPHER STAFF KEEPS PACE WITH STUDENT INTERESTS

"Extra! Extra! Read all about it!" goes ringing through the hall as each issue of the PHILOSOPHER appears. The PHILOSOPHER is a bi-weekly newspaper edited and published by the second year journalism students for the purpose of acquainting the student body with the regular school curriculum as well as with the extra-curricular activities.

Alert staffers perk up their ears at the slightest hint of news, pursue it like bloodhounds, and compile their findings in the manner of journalists. Their next destination is Room 214M where these aspiring newsmen and newswomen prepare their copy. The clicking of typewriters can be heard late every afternoon.

The completed stories are then given to the editor who, after looking them over, presents the copy to the copy editors for re-editing. The page editors then take over and fit the copy to their pages. After all this is completed, the pages are sent to the printer.

The style of the PHILOSOPHER was altered this year. The former six-page paper is now a new modern size four-page paper.

The staff is under the supervision of Mrs. Kathryn Welsh. All photography for the paper is provided by Mr. George Strimbu's photography group.

QUILL AND BLADE STAFF RECORDS A YEAR OF SCHOOL MEMORIES

The 1961 QUILL AND BLADE is in your hands now. At last, the staff can relax. Sketches, plans, layouts, and ideas were working at a leisurely pace because deadlines were months away . . . but months pass and too quickly the deadlines were here.

Pictures were snapped and miles of copy were written. Index editors were busy typing out cards for everyone appearing in the annual. There was much work to be done and the entire student body could recognize an annual worker by that faraway look in her eye or the armful of pictures she was carrying.

Often confusion prevailed in room 214M when there were people but no photographers. When one felt creative there was no paper. Sometimes tears were shed. The phrase, "How in the world will we ever meet the deadline!" was expressed many times. Most of the time the staff was working, but some of it was fun, now that it's all over. These students learned all they could from Journalism advisor, Mrs. Kathryn Welsh, and Photography advisor, Mr. George Strimbu, concerning layout organization, writing, editing, and photography.

The finished product is your 1961 QUILL AND BLADE and the staff hopes you will treasure it for a lifetime.

FOOTBALL BUILDS BODIES AND CHAMPIONS

Following the same unique pattern which lead to victory and a City Championship last year, the football squad again turned out from August to October to prepare for another gruelling season.

Beginning on the hot dawn of August 15, the grid-iron aspirants faced dust, humidity, and the blazing sun each day as they worked from seven to nine in the morning and returned for more from one to three each afternoon. All this training responsibility was on the shoulders of head coach, Joseph Black, and his assistant coach, Lawrence Martin.

As the varsity squad faced the first games, the learning experience of the "practice battleground" began to pay off on the field of play.

The season was one of mixed emotions as the fighting Hornets won big ones, close ones, and lost closer ones. They showed a startling defensive, limiting opponents to hard won gains and a lightning quick offense accounted for many yards on the ground.

Climaxing their winnings, the squad fought off Gary Roosevelt to retain the City Championship Crown for the second consecutive year and remained the "masters of Gilroy".

Thus, the ground work has been done, and the goal of 1961 is to win again and keep the crown in the halls of Wallace forever.

APPRENTICE FOOTBALL . . TRAINS FUTURE GRID-MEN

They say that experience is a good teacher and to get that needed experience for the games that counted, reserve and freshman squads spent many hours practicing with the varsity.

Through the able guidance of Coach Larry Martin, the boys met their opponents on our home field or on the grounds of other schools. Nearly every Saturday morning following a varsity game, the reserves drove their way to victory. They repeated the performances of the first team and sported a notable record with 7 wins and 2 losses.

The basic training of football was also taught in the freshman year. These determined fellows were under the direction of Coach Dom Polizotto. They train in the late summer months and through the school year. Though they received little publicity, patience was their watchword. After the grinding games and knowledge gained the hard way, the ultimate reward next year maybe the achievement of a varsity position. A seesaw season ended with a two win, four loss, and one tie record. Time will tell and better things are expected with more time and practice.

W CLUB PROMOTES SPORTSMANSHIP

Boys who participate in one or two sports usually have a mind for sports. Hence the existence of the "W" Club becomes clear. All athletes earning a major letter are eligible for membership.

Their aim is unity for all boys in every sport, and an understanding of each. Sportmanship and fair play in contests and in school are endorsed by the club. Members attempt to promote the best feelings among the students, faculty, and team members, thus providing more effective team work. "W" Club is an honor club for those who have shown skill enough to be awarded a major letter.

Quarterly meetings were presided over by Walter Wallin, president, assisted by vice-president, Marty Svihra. Ron Foster took charge of keeping accurate minutes and the clerical work as secretary, while Rich Bowie, as treasurer, managed the club's finances.

The "W" Club members claimed a new distinction — the first boys in the past ten years to participate in an organized cheering section. Memories of out-yelling Horace Mann students should remain in the hearts of Wallace men forever.

Coach Richard Polk, Athletic Director, sponsors this organization.

CHEERLEADERS

BOOST SCHOOL SPIRIT

Varsity cheerleaders Judy Chelle, Pam Crnkovich, Barb Jansen, Claire Malis, Roseann Rizzo, and Sue Wagner have been in the eyes of the Wallace boosters for six months of the year. Under the sponsorship of Miss Angela Hannagan, they cheered the Hornets from the beginning of football in September until the end of basketball in February.

However, the most difficult part of their task, that of practicing and getting in shape, started long before they made their appearance. When weather permitted, last spring, these girls gathered in the school yard to improve their skills and to teach those interested the basic fundamentals of cheering. During summer vacation their enthusiasm was evidenced by not less than 21 hours of practice each.

Training with the varsity squad were the energetic reserves, Betty Bobor, Marcia Brueckheimer, Norma Gordon, Theresa Harrison, Judy Hodges, and Barb Polizzotto. These girls gained valuable experience while actively boosting reserve basketball players.

Working in conjunction with the Booster Club, Boys' Club, and Club "W", the cheerleaders helped promote a new high in school spirit. The successful girls' cheering block was supplemented by the appearance of a new male rooting section. Signs were displayed in school and in the establishments of Glen Park merchants before each game. In addition, new cheers were originated, practiced, and perfected.

Marty Svihra's specialty is the charity stripe. Here he adds the one that won the first game in our sectionals.

BASKETBALL INVOLVES QUICK, CLOSE ACTION

Height may not be an important word at times, but in basketball it is essential. This insignificant word created a different season for the Hornets, because the record of losses outweighed the winnings and lack of height was the reason.

As practice began early in November this deficit was seen but the future was anything but dim. Under the competent guidance of Coach Dom Polizotto the squad drilled for preliminary conditioning.

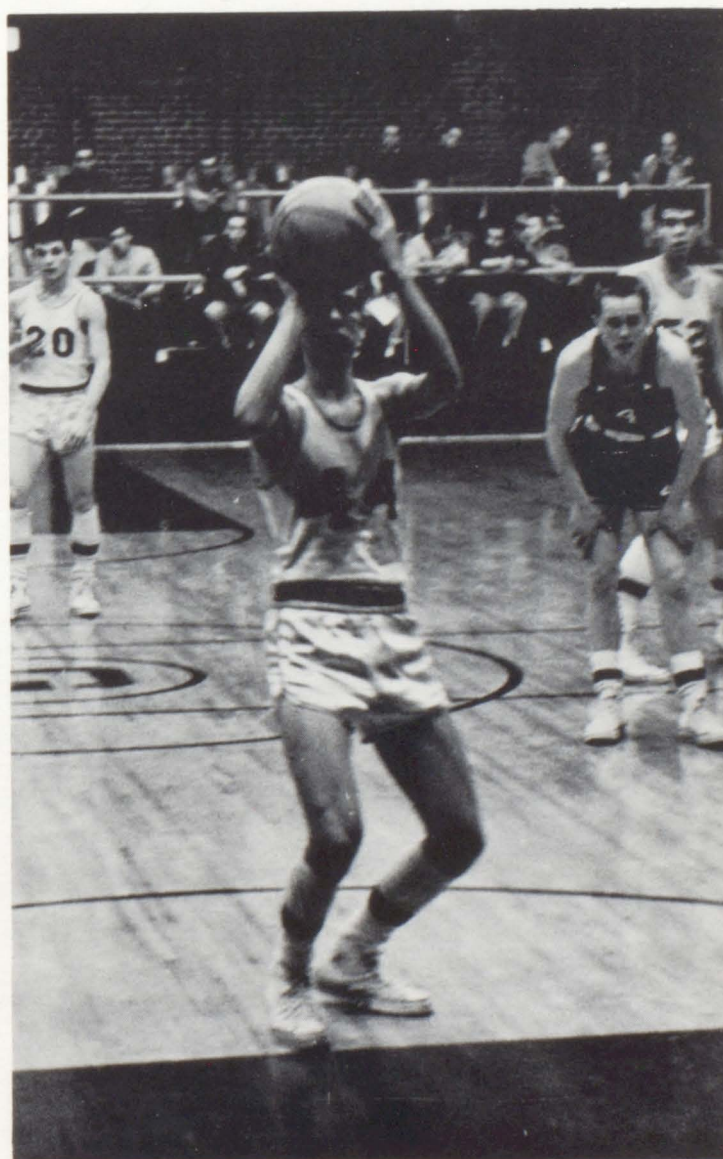

Predictions of the season were made and it was clear that, although the team men were not tall, the strategy would be to break fast, hit quickly, defend, rebound, and hit again.

When the Hornets came on the floor the spectators wondered. What could boys like this do against the taller opposition? Well, they got their answer. Fight, fight hard, lick wounds and return for more.

The team hit well, free throw percentages often near 100. Jerry Tarpo and Marty Svihra, 5'7 and 5'10 guards, pumped in the shots from outside, as Emile Garneau and Kim Polizotto laid them up or hooked them in and Don Slys hit from all over.

Scores were close and statistics closer, but a one point loss is as bad as a twenty point loss. It was that word, HEIGHT, again that won it for such teams as Horace Mann, Hobart, Hammond Clark, and Wirt.

The season is over and next year is ahead. With the knowledge and experience of a bad stretch, we know we did not always win, but we kept our school spirit.

RESERVE AND FROSH BASKETBALL PROVIDE NECESSARY EXPERIENCE

As many fans drifted into Memorial Auditorium or the host team's gym, they noticed another game starting or already in progress. Though the action was not as quick and precise as in the varsity games, experience was built in each maneuver of these reserve games.

The boys were coached in the fundamental skills of basketball by Coach Richard Polk, who emphasized defense and elementary skills.

Especially encouraging were the victories over Wirt, 33-19, and Edison, 42-39. The varsity season of next year may well have been predicted as our reserves beat those younger brothers of the teams that beat our varsity.

Some boys exhibited such good qualities that they later joined the varsity and played in the big games.

The first plateau of basketball, the freshman team, was coached by Coach Clarence Day. Spending many hours on skills and scrimmage, new plays and opposing the reserves in practice, they prepared for their busy season of floor action.

The team was divided into "A" and "B" squads to accommodate all boys wishing to play in games. Many of their games are sparsely publicized and played on cold Saturday mornings, but it's what they learn that counts.

BASEBALL IS RUNNING, HITTING, FIELDING

With the first sign of buds and basepaths, the Hornet baseball men formed for the hitting, running, and fielding they were to do in the months ahead. The school grounds were turned into a spring training camp, as the baseballs flew around the gym and players put on wind endurance scenes in the balcony. All this was under the direction of Coach Lawrence Martin.

The uniforms were no indication of the symmetry of the team, because members of the well-organized team appeared in the conglomerations of 214 hats and Palm Grove Cafe shirts.

Weather permitting, the practice was switched to the athletic field diamonds still recovering from winter's arctic blasts and spring thaw's muddy remains.

Time was the winner and April showers held nothing back. Soon the boys really shaped into a big league crew, as they lashed out hits across 47th Avenue and fielded ones that ordinarily would have been lost.

Facing more opponents than any other Hornet squad, the baseball team of 1960 completed the season with a big 12 win, 5 loss record. Outstanding individual performances were turned out by Pete Flores, Reggie Sohacki, Dick Ellch, Tom Magnetti, Curt Cleaver, and Dale Tarpo.

SWIMMING

IS COORDINATION

AND SPEED

Rulers of the deep, the Hornets swim team, emerged from the showers with blurry eyes after workouts led by Coach Ed Troy. Along with combinations of distance and interval sprints of various lengths Coach Troy executed a strengthening session of calisthenics.

The sweat and strain showed up, however, when the tedious laps in the cold chlorinated blue were narrowed to a sprint of two or five lengths that brought a first or second position.

The soggy, but spirited, crew swam to a 4 and 10 record. The meet scores were on extremes as the Hornet squad torpedoed Roosevelt 72-14, and the Reserves dunked Andean 60-15. But we did not win them all, and dropped close ones to Portage 48-47 and South Bend Washington 50-45.

Recurrent winners were present on our team. Senior Wally Wallin's style of knifing speed and shiplike turns won the 40 yard and 100 yard free style events. Training with great endurance paid off for junior Dennis Drag in the 400 yard free style. Pete Baranko won in the 100 yard backstroke with ease, and Jerry Garapich placed high in diving.

The team was bolstered by Bruce Gulledge in the 40 yard and 100 yard free style, Bill Green swimming the 100 yard breast stroke, and Jim Qualizza off the board.

HARRIERS RUN TWO LONG HARD MILES

In the dim shadows of the summer sunset or the first rays of dawn, a runner could be seen jogging or sprinting around gloomy Gleason, along a country road, or at the water's edge of Lake Michigan. Another Hornet harrier was preparing for the many miles that he was to face in September and October.

When school began, he faced the cold mornings with his coach, Richard Polk, and teammates for more rugged workouts.

All this paid off as he ran the distance of the first two miles at Gleason Park. The season provided him with grass-stained feet, fatigue, colds, and headaches. But there's a certain glory attained at the finish of two long, hard-fought miles.

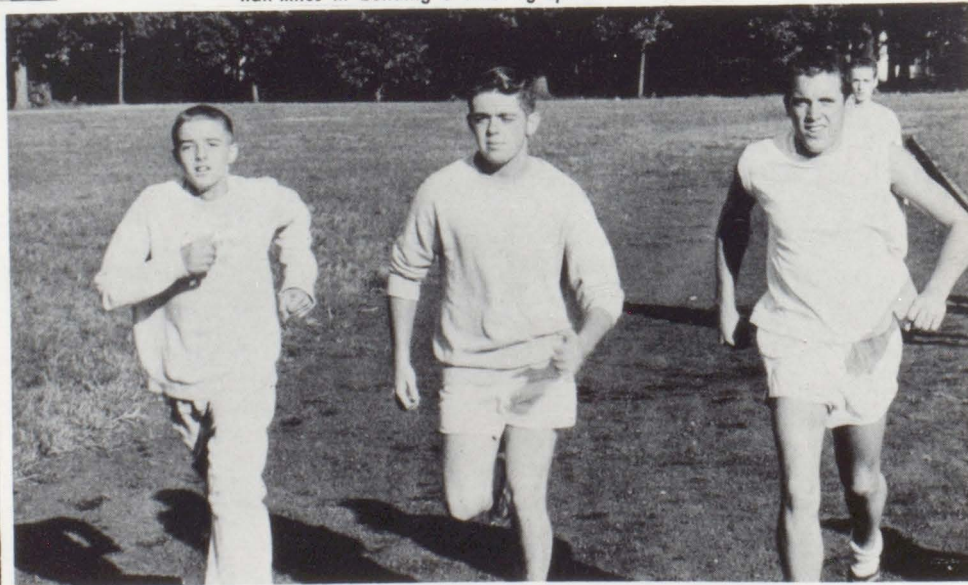

The courses were, by no means, easy. There were roots, stones, hard earth, hills, steep hills, creeks, and the ultimate—burning leaves.

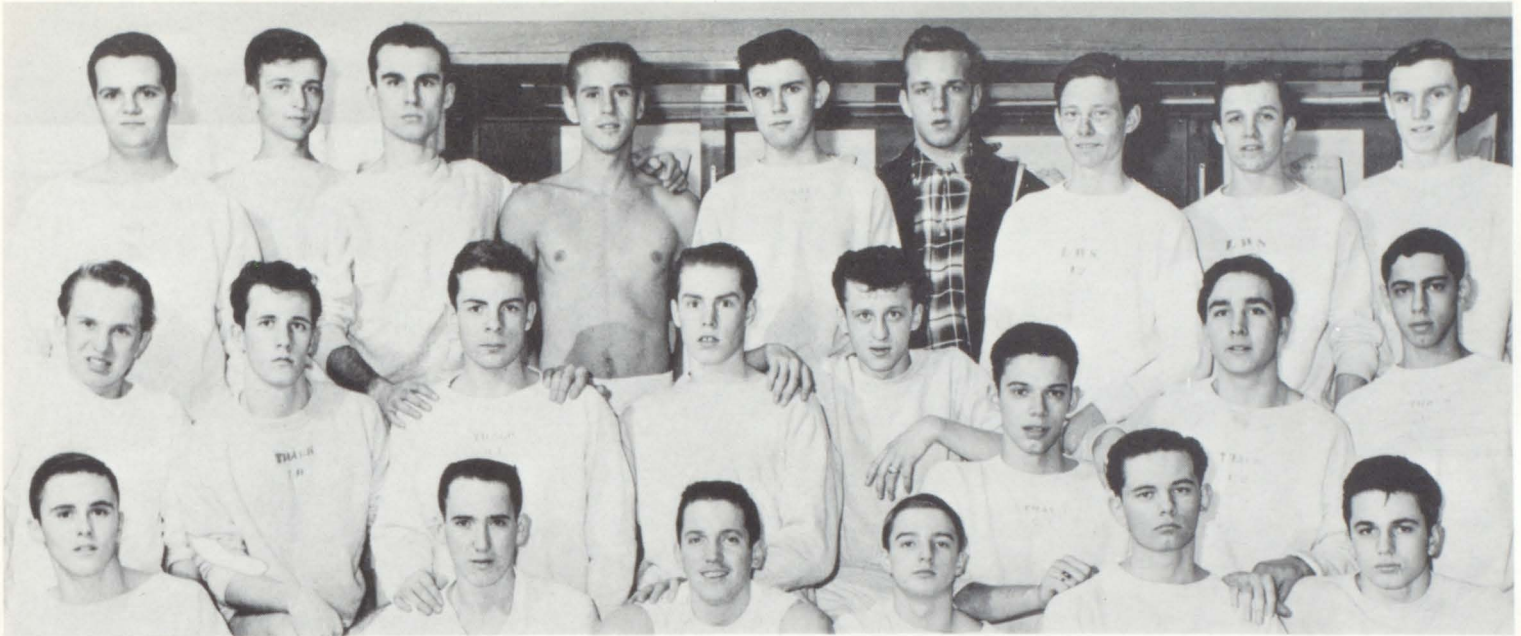

He defeated ten teams and lost to five. But at La Porte, during the conference meet, he had his finest hour. The 40 degree temperature, winds from the southwest at 30 mph, and two false starts were only a few of the hardships suffered at this meet.

However, the Hornet harrier was strong from running hill practices and finished in five good positions. The day was completed as he avenged many of the early losses and placed fourth in the NIHSC.

Cross-country reservists Larry Morgan, Tom Recktenwall, and Jerry Stanchina run half-miles in building a finishing sprint.

"It was a rough two miles," Ron Foster testifies to his helpful X-Country teammates Al Malis and Bob Kish.

CINDERMEN SPRINT, STRIDE AND LEAP TO RECORDS

Track is a year round sport. In order to do the job, our participants soon learned they had to work diligently for many, many months — twelve to be exact. This was hard to do, because the extent of our practice season was only five months. All began before the snow had melted, pounding miles in the gym balcony or around the school campus.

Sessions switched to the front of school and then to the weed-covered, mud-smeared track. Practice was hard and lengthy. There were hurdles and heights to top, and lengths and times to strive for.

The season jumped off in March with indoor contests in the University of Chicago Field House.

Weather permitting, the meets shifted outdoors. A few were run on our home course, but many took place on the newly created fast track at Gilroy Stadium.

The season climaxed with the city and conference outdoor meets in the warm Saturday sun at Gilroy.

The friends made and events won are well remembered, but the odors linger on. The "red hot" or "deep heat" used by the runners, and the distinct aroma of the shower room all are a part of the cinderman's memories.

Spectators take to the sidelines as cinderman, John Talevich, hands off to Jerry Stanchina, in preparation for the track season.

INTRAMURALS

AGAINST CLASS

Running parallel to the school's athletic program were the intramural events, headed by Mr. George Stroia, intramural director.

The activities were seasonal and they were of a wide range. Teams were arranged in homerooms. Certain sports, such as swimming, golf, track, and horseshoes, were climaxed by individual contests.

In the fall, football, field hockey, and a $\frac{3}{4}$ mile turkey run were offered. During the long cold winter there was an indoor program consisting of volleyball and swimming. The two big events of this season were basketball in the evenings and bowling at Ridge Lanes, a local bowling alley.

The teams for basketball were grouped into four divisions, red, blue, green, and gold, each for a class. The divisions' champions in turn played off in a tournament for the grand championship trophies.

With the thaw came mushball, tennis, track, horseshoes, and the spring attraction—the "Little 500" bicycle contest. This race, open to boys and girls, was preceded by hours of preparation in the pits and grueling time trials on the track for positions.

In certain events the efforts of the first place teams were recognized by the presentation of awards. This occurred in mushball, cross country, and the "Little 500" race.

Mike Wardell instructs teammates Vic Nordlund, Ray Hudson, and Dennis Kolarik who are to roll against intramural opponents.

GOLF REQUIRES PATIENCE AND POWER

Standing: R. Dartz, A. Szalmasagi, J. Szalmasagi, D. Megquire, M. Narcowich, G. Monroe, J. Clodig, A. Wojkovich, E. Menzie, Don Dykeman, James Croll, and Pat Kennedy watch as Paul Ihle and Coach James Anderson helps Mike Zubrik. Ace golfer, Mike Narcowich demonstrates his usual perfect form as he tees off at Gleason Park, home course of Hornet linksmen.

Prospects looked bright for our 1961 golf team right from the start of the year. Losing only Paul Turpa, Nick Barbosa, and Nick Chabraja from the 1960 City Champions, sectional qualifiers, and fifth place finishers in the final state meet at Indianapolis, the Hornets seemed well fortified to defend their past laurels with great skill.

The 1961 team was lead by senior lettermen co-captains, Ralph Kalember and Mike Narcowich. Other returning lettermen included Mike Zubrik and Jerry Szalmasagi, who along with minor award winners, Andy Wojkovich, Ed Yoko, Vic Nordund, and Gerry Monroe, made Lew Wallace one of the most feared teams in the state. The team should improve on the twenty won and six loss record of 1960.

The 1961 schedule includes home matches with Michigan City, Highland, Crown Point, Hammond Bishop Noll, Hammond Tech, Hammond High, Hammond Clark, East Chicago Roosevelt, East Chicago Washington, Valparaiso, Horace Mann, Emerson, Edison, and Wirt.

The linkmen also competed in the Hammond Tech and La Porte Invitational Tourneys along with the annual City Tournament, which Lew Wallace has won four times in a row, the Sectional at La Porte and the State Meet at Indianapolis.

Ace golfer, Mike Narcowich demonstrates his usual perfect form as he tees off at Gleason Park, home course of Hornet linksmen.

G.A.A. BUILDS FEMALE CHAMPIONS

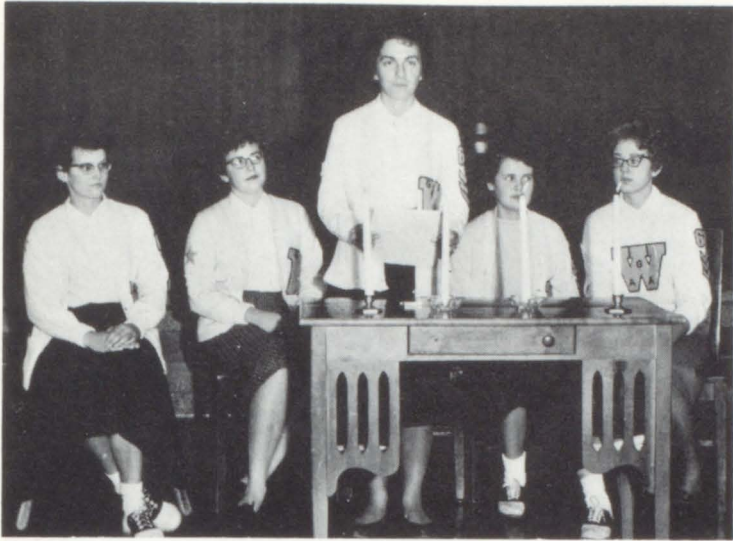

A candle glowed in the quiet of the room that initiation night and a voice explained the duties of a member of the association, "As a member of G.A.A. you must strive to develop a democratic spirit by learning to work and play in group activities. You will be trained in enjoyable leisure time for school days and . . ."

The scores of girls that treasured their G.A.A. initiation last fall now have finished a year of active participation. By taking part in the various athletic activities offered, helping with the stag dance, bringing food for a needy family at Christmas, and selling candy to help pay club expenditures, these girls earned their acceptance into the G.A.A.

Happy memories of the Christmas party, council trip to Chicago, skating party, dinner, and the unforgettable May camp-out are a part of this year's record.

It is fun for them to recall how lost they felt at first in the organization and how Aurelia Pasko, the president, so patiently explained things. Sara Hady, Madeline Schultz, Arlene Balakir and Diane Dilley acting as vice president, secretary, treasurer, and sports co-ordinator, respectively, certainly made them feel welcome.

The new initiates have become old members and soon will be witnessing with their club sponsor, Miss Mary Sharp, a new initiation.

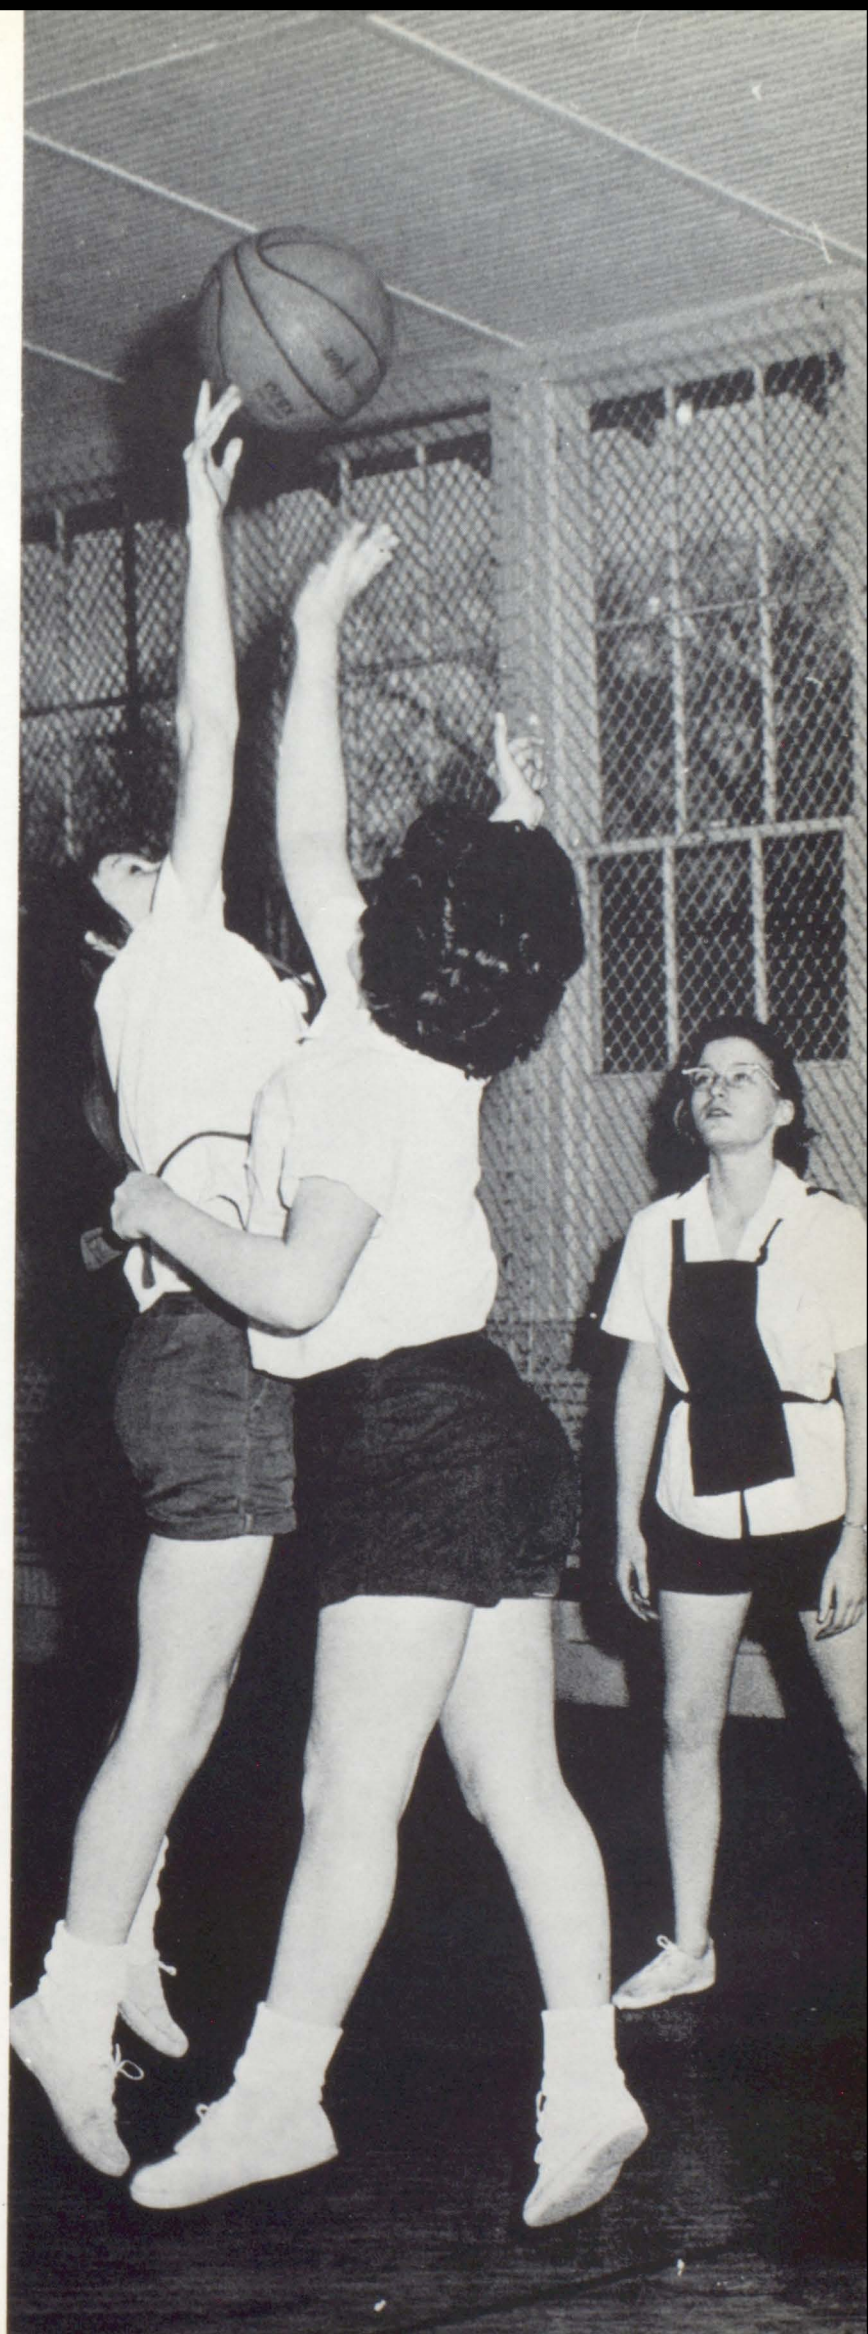

G.A.A. officers, Diane Dilley, Sara Hady, Aurelia Pasko, Arlene Balakir, and Madeline Schultz preside over the formal initiation.

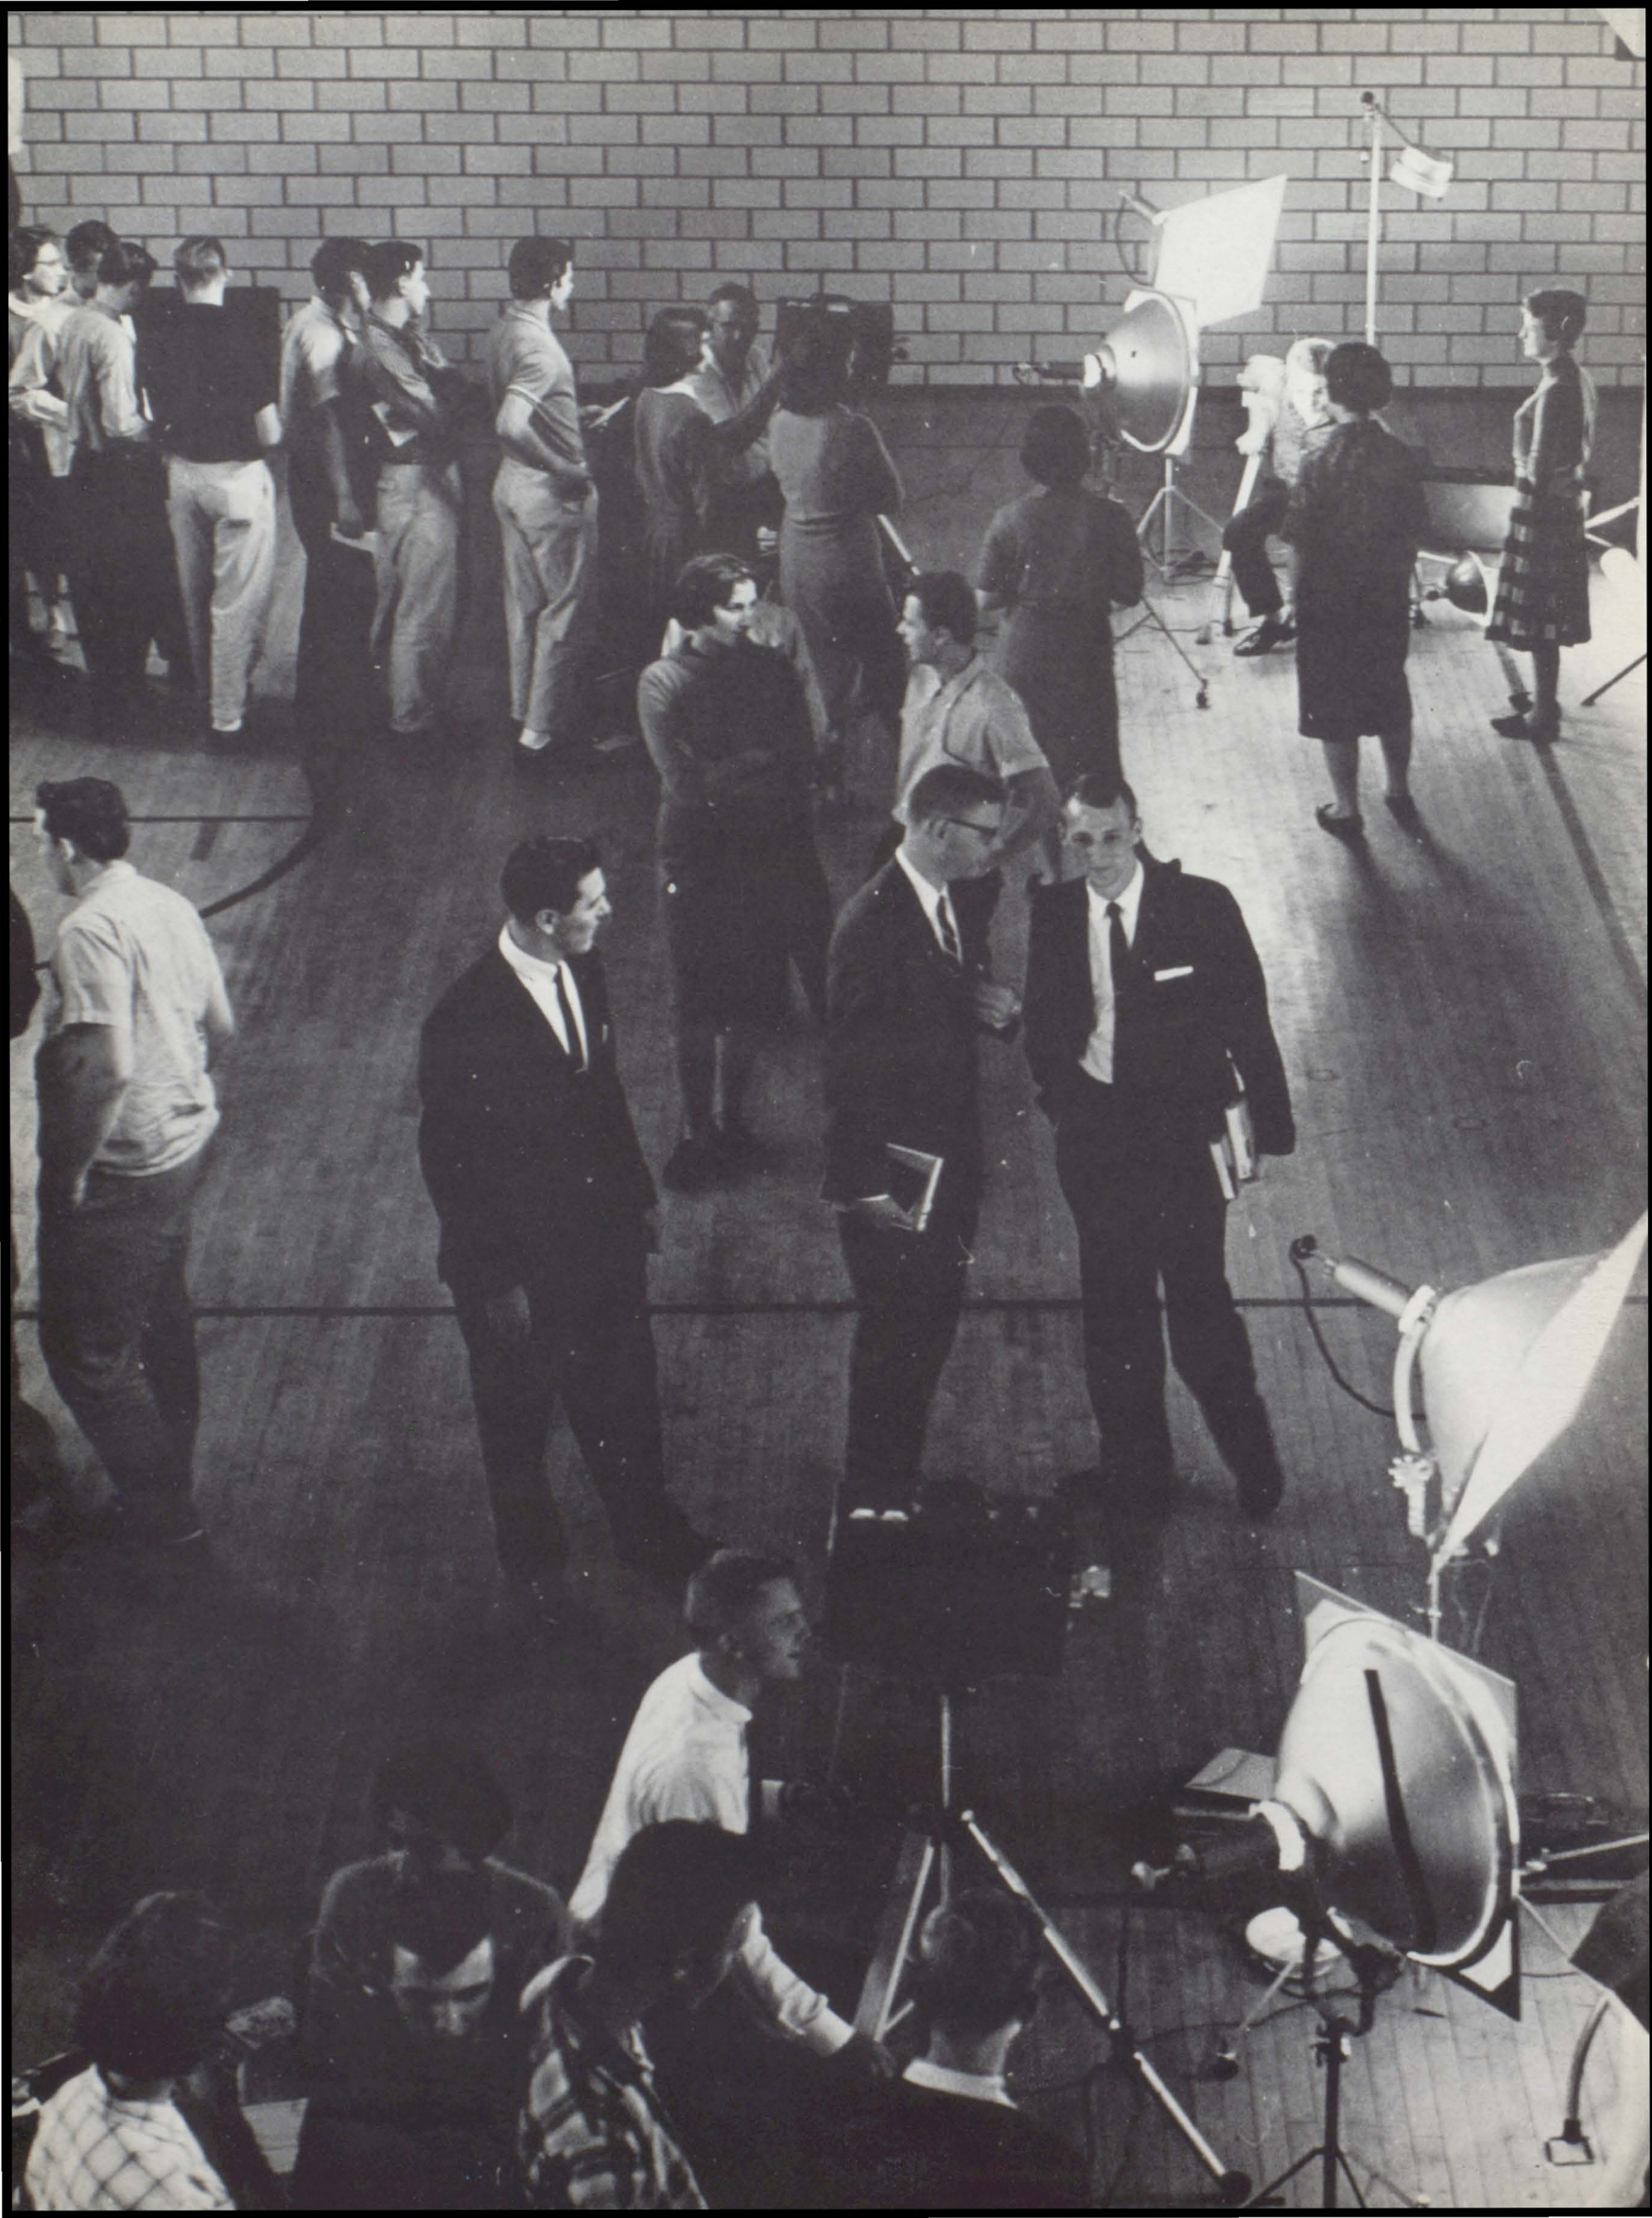

Seated are Pat Carich, Karen Floyd, Eleanore Sulizki, Sharon Binkley, and Judy Pall. Standing on the side of the pool are Joyce McKinney and Donna Stalow. Kathy Ivany, Christine Svetanoff, and Betty Baranko are in the water while Loretta Starzynski is seated on the board.

Whether it's boys or girls, the jump is the beginning for all basketball games as demonstrated by Judy Seepers and her opponent. Genevieve Burcham anxiously awaits the results of the tip.

That must be quite a score as G.A.A. members, Judy Spoor, Georgia Devyak, Ilene Cobb, Laura McCarney, DeDe Daugherty, and Donna Davis, stare on in amazement as Darlene Spotilla prepares to roll another strike.

To Indiana School Pictures we express our appreciation and gratitude for all the individual class pictures in this section.

ADMINISTRATION, STAFF, AND FACULTY GUIDE OUR LIVES

Many changes have come about during the past school year. We were happy to welcome our new principal, Mr. Don T. Torreson and our new assistant principal, Mr. A. E. Smith. Together with Mr. Lawrence G. Derthick Jr., our other assistant principal, they have promoted the best standards and climate for learning.

Our efficient office staff serves the school administration and student body to its full capacity. They issued combination locks to all students having key-locks, which resulted in many hours of explanation to bewildered students on the intricate mechanism of the combinations. Credits were checked, report cards filed according to the new Royal McBee system and they always managed to get the job done with patience and understanding.

School would not be an institution of learning if it were not for the 104 competent teachers on our faculty. According to statistics this group, teaching 42 subjects, has a combined total of 1150 years experience. Many of our teachers have their M.A. degrees and some have Ph.D. degrees, which help them to present their courses with knowledge and competence.

Scheduling programs, helping college-bound students decide on fields of interest and organizing placement and aptitude tests would not be possible if it were not for our guidance department. A question can always be answered by a guidance counselor to help students in their program of study.

The P.T.A. does much to maintain good parent-teacher relationships. It also provides buses to our out of town athletic events, advocate laws for the care and protection of school children, and sponsor the Post-Prom party.

To our superintendent and his assistants, and the Board of Education we express our appreciation for the many opportunities they have given us to further our educational goals.

SENIORS WILL GRADUATE WITH MIXED EMOTIONS

In a few days we will walk across the stage of Memorial Auditorium for our diplomas. Our Senior year will then draw to a close. Officially, our year began last September with the election of class officers. As we looked forward to an exciting year, many of us took the reins in athletics, clubs, and extra-curricular activities. All of us were determined to make this the best year ever!

Our Senior Reception, January 31, marked the beginning of our pre-graduation activities. After that most of us kept busy with ordering calling cards and invitations, competing in scholarship tests, filling our college applications, and planning for graduation. A little later we were fitted for caps and gowns. Finally, the long-awaited social event of the year, the Senior Prom, came and passed.

Several weeks later many of us received awards during Senior Activity Day. After that the days flew by, with Baccalaureate practice and the Senior Luncheon plans going forward. The next step will be Commencement and then we shall have completed our year. Some of us are facing the final hour with apprehension, but many of us are facing it with confidence, for we know that "sperendum est" or one must hope!

PROM COMMITTEE

With the coming of warm, spring days, Seniors' thoughts turned to the Prom, the pinnacle of their social year. Some of us remember buying our first formal or being fitted for that tux while others remember only that "certain someone" that added a special meaning to each song.

Pictured at a coke-tail party before the Prom are Bill Cieadlo, Bettie Pavol, Mary Lyn Gordon, Rich Polk, Pam Crnkovich, and Jim Opsitnik. Rich Polk served as host for the occasion preceding the Prom.

At the Prom, Seniors experienced a truly memorable night dancing to the music of the Blue Tones in the picturesque Crystal Ballroom of the Gary Hotel.

After the last dance the couples proceeded to Tiebels, reserved for Wallace students only. The late supper-party brought the gala evening to a happy ending.

Traditional after the Prom, breakfasts of sizzling bacon and scrambled eggs began early the next morning. Finally, an excursion to Dunes State Park or to Chicago completed the Prom festivities.

JUNIORS ENJOY LIFE AS UPPERCLASSMEN

Junior class officers include Maneul Barreiro, president; Barbara Polizzotto, vice-president; Ruth Mahaney, secretary; and Ron Alvarez, treasurer.

Well, we did it! This fall when we entered school, we achieved a long worked for goal; we became upperclassmen. With the distribution of our class rings, our title became official.

Our first major task was electing officers to lead our class. The Class of 1962 chose Manuel Barreiro as president; Barbara Polizzotto, vice-president; serving as secretary was Ruth Mahaney; and Ronald Alvarez, treasurer.

Along with many extra-curricular activities, there was also much studying that had to be done. The reading of American novels and short stories was an important requirement of the junior English classes. Also, many juniors had sleepless nights while struggling through their term topics.

This year the juniors had the first semi-formal Junior Class Party. This social event was in the Surf Room of St. Peter and Paul Church, April 21. We were glad to be able to start the first solo social function of the Junior Class.

These cherished memories which have been concentrated around the three years of our high school careers have led us to the big step — our Senior Year!

FRESHMEN ADJUST TO HIGH SCHOOL LIFE

A year ago the class of '64 entered Lew Wallace High School as "green freshies."

The experiences which we have encountered have been getting us in shape for our next step — our second year in high school. The first big affair was the Freshman Week, which can never be equaled. This week there were many exciting events; girls trying to find their "big sisters", the Girls' Club Sock Hop, and the boys trying to dodge the upperclassmen.

Freshman class officers include David Horbovetz, president; Sue Vorwald, treasurer; Pat Angerski, secretary; and John Blake, vice-president.

Another new experience was our first class meeting, which the newly elected officers presided over. Dave Horbovetz was president, and John Blake was vice-president, with Pat Angerski as secretary, and Sue Vorwald treasurer.

On April 21, the Freshman Class Party was given and it turned out to be a tremendous success. This was the closing social affair of the year for them.

We found many rewards, also, in the field of study, Freshman Activity Day honored those who had achieved high standards in academic and special subjects. The establishment of an Honor Roll at the end of each grade period found many of us trying to get our names up there.

Yes, the "Freshies" have just experienced one of the most exciting parts of their high school days.

Acknowledgements

The 1961 Quill and Blade, now in your possession is a memory book representing tedious work filled hours by many students, who all intent on their work, tried to make this year's annual your best.

Because too often the people behind the scenes go unsung, I wish to take this opportunity to give credit to those who contributed invaluable advice and assistance.

First of all, my deepest thanks are extended to Mrs. Katheryn Welsh, journalism advisor, and Mr. George Strimbu, photography advisor, for their many helpful conferences which often lasted many hours after the 3:20 dismissal bell. Without their competent guidance, copy couldn't have been written and pictures couldn't have been taken.

I wish also to express my gratitude to the administration, clerical staff, friends, and faculty, especially to Mr. G. Burelli for his layout suggestions.

To those outside the highschool family who added their knowledge and experience to the task, I extend my special thanks to Mr. Norman Koenig of Norman King Publishers, Mr. Dean McWhirter of Indiana School Pictures and the personnel at Frank's Store for Men.

In conclusion, I extend my appreciation to the many unnamed here who showed patience when tempers were short, boosted morales in those darker moments, and gave encouragement which is so vitally needed when embarking on such a project.
